Van Doren Says He's Ready for Federal Booth

TV Personality To Appear Before Committee Nov. 2

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren, who won $129,000 on television, says he's ready to accept a subpoena to testify in a congressional probe of fixed quiz shows.

Van Doren arrived here Tuesday after a weekend in New England amid a furor over his whereabouts. The investigating subcommittee's chairman, Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), has charged he ducked the subpoena. It was delivered to federal authorities here Tuesday.

The subpoena presumably calls for Van Doren's appearance before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee Nov. 2, when the inquiry, now in recess, will resume.

Van Doren's lawyer, Carl J. Rubino, said the young TV personality would accept the subpoena as soon as its delivery can be arranged. Rubino said Van Doren had just learned about the subpoena.

"He could not evade a subpoena which he did not know had been issued," Rubino declared.

Van Doren, a Columbia University English instructor, dropped out of sight last week when the subcommittee first sought his testimony in Washington.

The National Broadcasting Co. suspended him from a $50,000-a-year consultant's job pending the outcome of the investigations. He got the job after winning his prize money on NBC's "Twenty-One" quiz show in 1956-57.

Rubino said: "He had no thought of evading anything. He just became distressed when NBC took him off the air summarily last Thursday. He was disturbed and just went off. He telephoned me last night and I told him that allegedly there was a subpoena out for him. I heard it over TV."

Van Doren, member of a distinguished literary family, spent the weekend in New England, the lawyer said. He visited the farm home near Cornwall, Conn., of his father Mark Van Doren.

The son had obtained a week's leave of absence from his teaching post.

New Jobless Pay Begins On Thursday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Beginning Thursday, jobless Ohioans who file new claims for state benefits will receive larger weekly checks under a liberalized law. The law is effective Friday.

It increases maximum basic weekly benefits from $33 to $42 for 26 weeks, the same benefit period provided by the old law.

It also increases dependency allowances. While present law provides for only two such allowances at $3 each, the new law provides three allowances, the first one at $5 and the next two at $3, a total of $11, or the first time, the law permits an allowance for a dependent spouse.

To receive the maximum, an unemployed worker must have normal wages of $84 a week. If such a worker has a dependent spouse and two dependent children, he may receive up to $53 a week for as long as 26 weeks.

The new law will allow a claimant to earn up to 20 per cent of his weekly benefit before deductions. The earnings must be reported, however.

so revised are some eligibility and disqualification provisions. Among these revisions is that a pregnant woman is disqualified for eight weeks before and not more than eight weeks after the birth of her child.

N & W, Virginian Railroads Merge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission approved a merger of the Norfolk and Western Railroad and the Virginian Railway Co. Tuesday. The merged line, in the first railroad merger approved by the ICC in modern times, will be a 2,746-mile system running through the Pocahontas soft coal region in Virginia and West Virginia to Norfolk, Va., and westward to Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio. It will operate branches through Hagerstown, Md. Bristol, Va., Winston-Salem, N.C., and Durham, N.C.

News Honors Outstanding Carrier Boys

Newspaper boys were honored at a dinner Tuesday night at the Country Club by The Salem News as part of the activities of Newspaper Week.

The five best carriers of the 107 who deliver The News are shown above looking over one of their awards, a bright red newspaper bag, which was presented to them by Circulation Manager Lowell Hoprich (left). They are (l. to r.) Darryl Everett, Tom Grimm and Bob Beaumont, all of Salem, Jim Roberts of Lisbon and Ted Cobbs of Damascus.

Runners-up for the awards sponsored by the Inland Daily Press Association, were Bud Herron of Salem, Darryl Jones of Middleton, Bob Garrett of New Albany, Joel Piersol of Washingtonville and Dick Homan of Columbiana.

Salem High School Football Coach Earle Bruce praised the youths for being willing to give up some of their time so they can work. He compared the character building aspects of delivering papers and meeting the public to those of playing football as he related tales of his own newspaper carrying days. The dinner was followed by pictures of the Salem-Ravenna football game.

Board Named On Visitations

2 From City to Aid County Inspections

Two Salem residents and one each from East Liverpool, Lisbon, Columbiana and East Palestine were named to the Board of County Visitors Tuesday afternoon by Probate Judge Louis Tobin.

Appointed were Mrs. Herbert Hanna RD 2, and Guy Mauro of Salem; George T. Farrall of Camp Ground Rd., East Liverpool; Clarence Robinson of Lisbon, former county commissioner; Mrs. Kay Blackburn of Columbiana; and Mrs. Clara Rowland of East Palestine.

For the bipartisan group, two were named by James McSweeney of Wellsville, county Republican chairman, and Don Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman, and two by Judge Tobin.

Mauro and Mrs. Hanna were named for three-year terms; Robinson and Mrs. Blackburn for two years; and Farrall and Mrs. Rowland for one year. This gives three Republicans and three Democrats on the visiting board as required by law.

The group will serve without pay but will be given mileage and expenses for visitations and attending meetings or conventions relative to their work.

Similar boards never functioned when they existed a number of years ago. It was requested by the county commissioners that this group be revived under the state laws.

Their duties will consist of visitation to keep fully advised of conditions and management of all charitable or correctional institutions which include the County Home, at Lisbon, the county jail, municipal jails, and the Children's Receiving Home at East Palestine. They must visit these institutions at least once every three months and make a yearly report to the probate court.

Rotarians Hear Talk By Safety Director

A thumbnail sketch of the police department's activities was given by Safety Director Joseph Fester at the Tuesday noon luncheon of the Rotary Club in the Memorial Building.

The safety director also discussed the equipment used by both the police and fire departments and reviewed the safety programs.

Salem's use of its police radio as a relay for messages traveling from the southern portion of the county to the area north of here was also related by Fester. He said the equipment of the two departments is good but that more is needed.

Salisbury to Begin Town Hall Meetings

Harrison Salisbury, political writer for the New York Times, will discuss "A New Look At the Soviet Challenge" at the opening meeting of the Salem Town Hall programs tonight at 8:15 in the Junior High School auditorium. Mr. Salisbury recently returned from a trip to Russia.

New Law May Require Courts to Get Clerks

Columbiana County's three lower courts are expected to get deputy clerks by the time mayors of municipalities no longer are able to hear state patrol cases after Nov. 6, when a new state law goes into effect.

At a meeting Tuesday attended by Commissioners R. Max Gard, Walter A. Hunston and Frank Wilson, County Judges James L. MacBride and Luther Dunbar, State Highway Patrol Sgt. Kenneth Overholt and Cpl. John Miller, Clerk of Courts Carl Stacey, Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan and Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, it was decided that if all cases outside the municipalities will have to be handled by county courts and the municipal court in East Liverpool after Nov. 6, the county judges will need some clerical help.

Chest Drive Slows; Teams Urged to Work

Salem's Community Chest drive, with only five days remaining, reached 60 per cent of the goal today but Chairman Robert Oswald said it was apparent that some of the teams had slowed down in their canvassing.

A total of $36,916 was on hand today in cash and pledges to aid the 11 "red feather" agencies but he said "we are a long way from the $61,295 objective and all teams must redouble their efforts in the next few days if we are to go over the top."

In giving a report of the various Chest teams, Mr. Oswald declared "it is obvious that some of the team captains and their co-workers are lagging or else they haven't turned in their reports as requested."

"It is imperative that we get busy at once," he said. "The 'last mile' is the hardest, he opined. The executive team is leading the Chest groups with $23,937.50 or 91 per cent.

Percentages of the other teams and their totals are: Team One, 24 per cent ($298); Team Two, 21 per cent ($395); Team Three, 31 per cent ($94.20); Team Four (school report due tomorrow); Team Five, 51 per cent ($8,087.45); Team Six, 30 per cent ($1,279.48); Team Seven, 12 per cent ($147); Team Eight, 36 per cent ($1,107); Team Nine, 24 per cent ($598.49) and Team Ten, 18 per cent ($113.40).

$1,905 Reported In Lisbon Chest Drive

LISBON — A total of $1,905 was reported today in contributions for the Lisbon Community Chest drive which began Oct. 5, according to Mrs. Margaret Williams, secretary.

The goal is $7,200, leaving $5,295 still to be collected. Rain has caused some delay in canvassing.

Explorer VII Attains Orbit

Space Scientists Pleased With Results

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's new Explorer VII satellite is spinning about the earth every hour and 41 seconds gathering data about space radiation and the weather.

A four-stage Juno II rocket lifted the gyroscope satellite into orbit Tuesday and it immediately began transmitting valuable information.

Space scientists were pleased with the orbit attained—which takes the Explorer VII 664 miles from earth at its farthest point and as close as 346 miles at its nearest point.

Dr. Homer Newell Jr. of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported this orbit is more nearly circular than hoped for and said it would be an advantage because of the nature of some of the seven experiments carried in the instrument package.

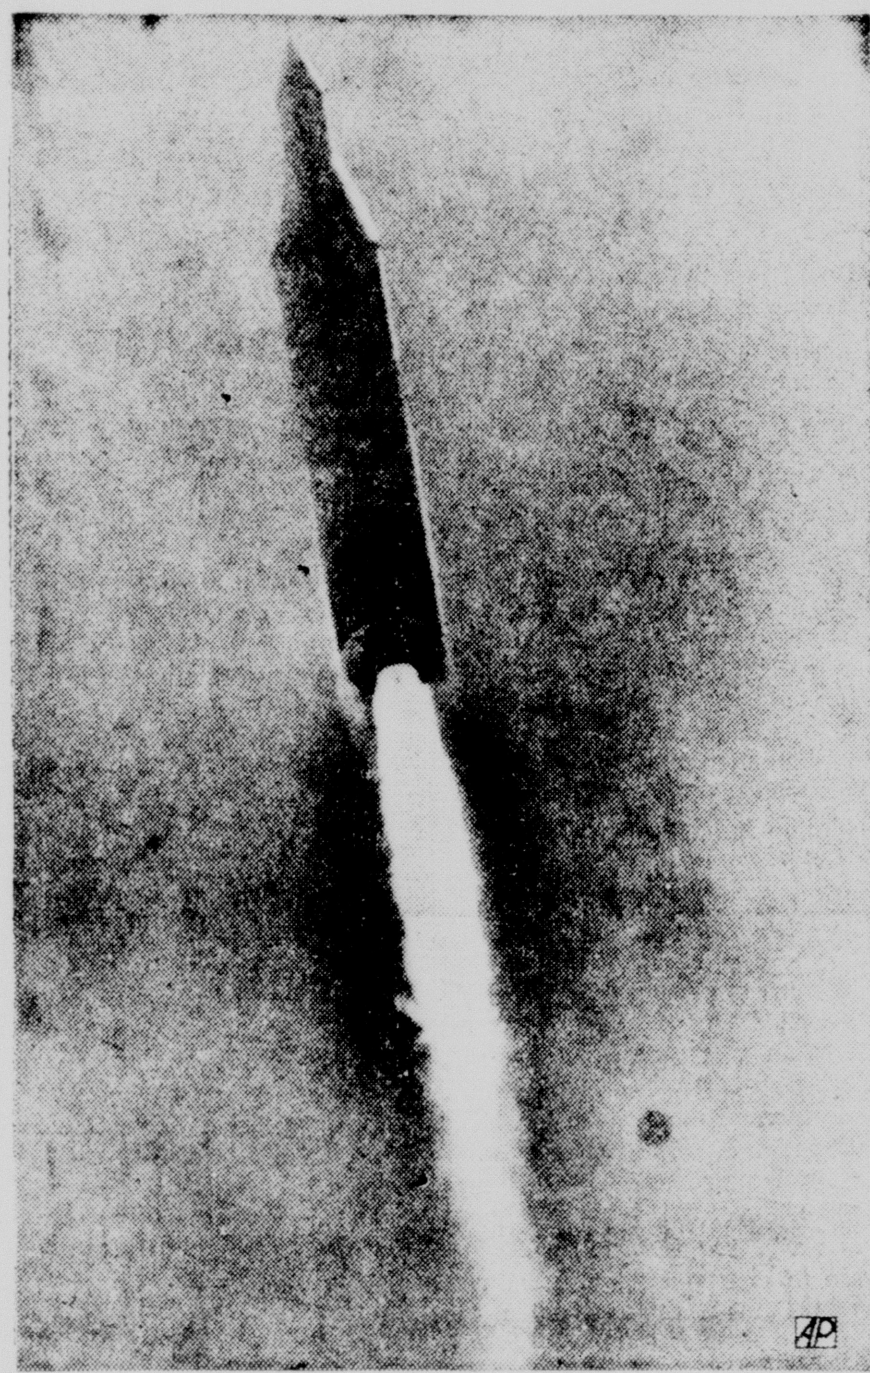

For one thing, he noted, gauges designed to measure cosmic rays will not be unduly flooded by high altitude radiation.

Newell announced one of the two satellite radio transmitters was weaker than hoped for and that it probably will shut off in about two months. The transmitter is designed for precision tracking of the satellite. Newell said, however, that when the radio stops, the satellite can be tracked by telescopic means.

Explorer VII is expected to stay aloft for 20 years, but it will relay information for only one year. After that period, an automatic device will shut off the second transmitter. This is to prevent the radio signals from cluttering up satellite broadcasting wavelengths.

The main mission of the new satellite was to study the lower levels of bands of radiation hovering above the earth. This data may help ease man's way to the moon.

Other instruments measure cosmic rays in and below the belt; micro-meteoroid density; sun-produced ultra-violet radiation; and the heat balance between the earth and the sun. Meteorologists believe the latter is responsible for most of our weather.

The Juno II was one of three rockets launched here Tuesday. Earlier, a B47 jet bomber fired a 37-foot Bold Orion missile across the path of the Explorer VI "Paddle Wheel" satellite. The missile may be the forerunner of a weapon designed to knock down enemy satellites.

Tuesday night the Air Force launched its dependable Thor intermediate range missile on a 1,500-mile test flight.

Eisenhower Celebrating 69th Birthday

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — President Eisenhower celebrates his 69th birthday today. If all goes well, it should be much quieter than the past two days.

Today's schedule: A flight that should get him back to Washington around noon, and a family dinner tonight.

Eisenhower did most of his celebrating early. First there was a White House Correspondents' Assn. dinner Monday night, and Tuesday here in his old home town, there was an old-fashioned party.

The President was here to help break ground for a library that will have his official papers. Considerable sentiment was mixed with business.

He was given a big cake at a luncheon. "We are all met," the President said, "in a town that

High School PTA Session Draws 250

Nearly 250 persons attended the first meeting of the Senior High School Parent Teachers Association Tuesday evening at the school, with about 200 becoming members by enrollment.

The business meeting, presided over by President Ronald Whipple, was followed by a classroom inspection by the parents, who conferred with teachers.

School Supt. Paul E. Smith and High School Principal B. G. Ludwig gave short talks.

Cider and doughnuts were served afterwards by the hospital committee.

The hospitality committee included Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. David Keller, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Albright.

Utilities Meet With Council on Rate Hikes

Representatives of the Ohio Edison Co. and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. met with City Council Tuesday night in an informal session to iron out differences regarding a proposed electric rate hike and to hear the opening arguments for an increase in the gas rates.

Glenn T. Harding, district manager, and Rufus C. Moses, district vice president, attended the meeting as spokesmen for the electric power firm. "It was a very sociable meeting," Harding said. He added, "I won't say there was no progress... (but there was) nothing definite."

The company is asking for a revised rate schedule which would cost the average user about 50c more each month. The present rate agreement, the utility firm stated in a letter to Council in April, is to be cancelled in October.

D. W. Smith, district manager for the gas company, said he offered Council a rate schedule which is just a little different than that which now exists. "There was a general feeling against the proposal," he said.

Republican Councilman-at-large Carl Aoe said the natural gas company officials were "advising Council" of what the proposal would mean. Basically it involves about a four per cent increase in rates which would be spread over four years.

No new meetings between Council and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. have been scheduled yet. The company is re-evaluating its proposal pending another meeting.

Nation Given 2 Alternatives, Cooper Claims

Negotiator Labels Union's Position As 'Plain Hogwash'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The striking Steelworkers Union gives the country only two alternatives, the industry's chief negotiator charged today—"another inflationary wage increase in steel or go without steel."

R. Conrad Cooper, who has headed the industry's negotiating team throughout the 92-day strike, defined this as the union's position in a statement prepared for a White House fact-finding board.

"Plain hogwash" is what Cooper called the union's contention that the real issue in the strike is the companies' desire to break the union.

Cooper's statement pounded again and again at what the industry calls the danger of inflation if a large wage increase is granted.

It was the industry's "day in court" before the inquiry board, which has heard the union present its side for the past day and a half. The board must report the facts of the strike to President Eisenhower by Friday. The President then decides whether to ask for a Taft-Hartley Act injunction, which would halt the strike for an 80-day cooling off period.

"There are two basic and clear-cut issues in this dispute," Cooper said.

"First, whether the companies should submit to the union's rule-or-ruin demands for another inflationary increase in wages and benefits in the face of the intense and steadily increasing competition which confronts our industry both at home and abroad; and

"Second, whether the new agreements will permit reasonable latitude in the management of the business, in the interest of im-

Brush Fire Rages Near Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A brush fire fanned by strong winds swarmed across Arroyo Seco Canyon today, devouring acres of valuable watershed and menacing foothill communities north of Los Angeles.

The east side of the fire, which has consumed some 1,200 acres, raged to within 1½ miles of the Caltech jet propulsion laboratory, a key center in space research. But the laboratory was not considered in any immediate danger. Flames lit the slate-gray hills overlooking the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, south of the blaze.

The fire is blazing along a 15-mile perimeter. A spokesman for the county fire department said it is believed the blaze was caused by a careless smoker. He did not elaborate.

Two fiery fingers of the southern front pierced the northern edges of the fashionable foothill community of La Canada, 30 miles north of Los Angeles. Flames damaged several homes.

The La Canada home of wealthy contractor Guy F. Atkinson was severely damaged. Atkinson estimated the loss at about $50,000.

Tragic Fire, Two Deaths Bring Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A tragic fire and four deaths Sunday and a birth Monday were swiftly followed Tuesday by two legal actions.

Two charges of allegedly causing the fire which killed his four grandchildren were brought against Ervin Ben Oliver, 45, of Columbus.

In one action, Oliver is accused of carelessly starting the fire. Police said he fell asleep on a couch with a lit cigarette. Conviction carries a six-month workhouse sentence and $500 fine.

A second charge accuses him of being a habitual offender and carries a workhouse sentence of three years. Police said Oliver has served 38 workhouse terms for intoxication.

The two charges mention city ordinances.

The fire victims were the children of Mrs. Virginia Cerda, 25, Oliver's daughter. Twenty-six hours after the tragedy, Mrs. Cerda gave birth to a son in University Hospital here.

Family Finds Going Rough In Walkout

MORRISVILLE, Pa. (AP) — "It's getting difficult. As a matter of fact we are at rock bottom, although there are other families far worse off than we are."

This, explains Helen Galambos, 33, is how the steel strike has affected her family. Her husband is one of the 6,100 employees on strike at U.S. Steel Corp. Fairless Works. They have a 6½-month-old daughter.

Mrs. Galambos says they are a month behind on their mortgage payments and have not been able to pay other bills.

"We're cutting on food where we can," she adds. "We are not eating the way we used to. Many of our meals are stews. We are buying less meat and when we do get it, it's the cheaper grades."

Many other families like the Galambos are in financial trouble. Mortgages are going unpaid. Bills are piling up. Christmas is approaching and there's no money for children's toys.

But the wives are not pressuring their husbands to rush into a settlement. Most take the position that their husbands, since they've been out this long, might just as well stay out a little longer until they get what they want.

Reuther Re-Elected President of UAW

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The United Auto Workers convention has given Walter P. Reuther firm control of the 1,200,000-member union for another two years.

Amid the hoopla and trappings of a major party political convention, the 2,500 delegates re-elected Reuther president by acclamation Tuesday.

Re-elected with him were all his top officers and executive board members.

Reuther first was elected president of the UAW in 1946.

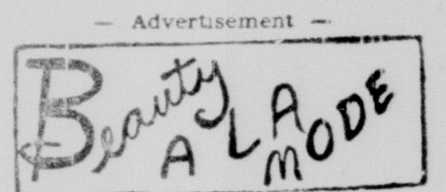

Re-elected with him were Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazew, Vice Presidents Leonard Woodcock, Richard T. Gosser, Pat Greathouse and Norman Matthews, Canadian Regional Director George Burt and 17 U.S. regional directors. They make up the executive board.

The convention voted a dues increase on a standing vote which Reuther said showed 80 per cent in favor.

Basic union dues will be increased Jan. 1 from $3 to $5 a month.

The convention earmarked $1.25 of the $5 rate to build up the strike fund. When the new rate goes into effect, union members no longer will have to pay a $1 special strike assessment.

HOW HIGH IS UP? — Ordinarily, 50 or 60 feet is high enough to blow corn silage because that's as big as most silos get. However engineers at an Appleton, Wis., tractor company decided to find out just how far up their high-capacity blower would blow. They erected 102 feet of pipe supported by an 80-foot pole and found that the blower easily lifted corn silage the complete distance. At the rate of a ton each minute, too.

MALL TO STAY ON

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Retail merchants of the Chamber of Commerce voted Tuesday to keep until Jan. 1 the experimental shopping mall in downtown Middletown. A 30-day trial period for the mall—which bars motor traffic in a two-block section—was due to end next Friday.

MERCURY FOR 1960 is distinctive and functionally clean in design. The car's soft, smooth ride is the result of the blending of body, frame, suspension, engine and transmission into a completely road-tuned car. Two-barrel carburetors increase economy of the low-friction V-8 engines. Two of the engines offer added economy by using regular gasoline. Mercury's spacious interiors with lowered transmission and driveshaft tunnel afford comfort for six passengers. Pictured is the Montclair four-door (hardtop). They'll be shown Thursday.

City In Maryland Suffers After Fire

WILLIAMSPORT, Md. (AP)—A two-million-dollar fire that destroyed four businesses has created a serious economic problem for this western Maryland community.

The fire Tuesday threw 200 of Williamsport's 3,000 persons out of work.

Textiles and containers of chemicals fed the blaze which broke out in a boiler room of a 300-foot building housing the Federal Silk Mills.

COSMIC CONGESTION — Year III of the Space Age got off to a spectacular start when Russia sent a rocket—Lunik III—around the moon. If it manages to stay in orbit, it will bring to two the number of current Russian earth satellites, as against eight American. Both countries have an artificial "planet" circling the sun. In the two years since Sputnik I, the U.S. has launched 12 successful earth satellites (out of 16 tries); Russia three. Several U.S. attempts to hit or circle the moon have failed; Russia hit the moon once (Lunik II). Any Russian failures are not known.

Now For the Sticks and Stones

When President Truman snubbed the Taft-Hartley Act in 1952 and violated the Constitution by seizing the steel industry instead, no one had a kind word for him.

No one has an official kind word for President Eisenhower now. He has done what his duty says he must do — and he has acted legally. But no one in the steel industry is happy about it — officially.

There is only one law under which he can break the steel deadlock, the Taft-Hartley Act. Congress never has provided anything else.

Mr. Eisenhower knew he would become the target for all kinds of abuse if he used the only law in existence. Every union spokesman and every citizen trying to dodge responsibility for the steel industry's paralysis would take out his spite on the White House. The air would be full of sticks and stones.

Fortunately, the President can take all the abuse that comes his way. It won't hurt him, and it won't hurt the Republican party.

For every union spokesman who shrieks that President Eisenhower is trying to break the union by invoking the Taft-Hartley Act, there will be 10,000 union members who will thank the President for giving them a chance to get back to work and earn some money.

These men and their families can be 100 per cent loyal to the officers of United Steelworkers and still realize it is the steel companies which pay them, not the union.

FOR EVERY STEEL worker and citizen who has been intrigued by the preaching that "facts" can be found which would be of such ironclad logic that they alone could bring about a settlement of the strike issues, there must be at least a thousand Americans who understand why this is not true.

The issue in the steel strike of 1959 is not whether the companies can pay some still undetermined amount of money to their unionized employees.

It is whether the companies can use their judgment in what they believe to be a showdown on their historic right to manage their plants.

"Economic determinism," a phrase beloved by socialists who think human decisions should be made by comptometers, has crept further into American thought than is good for American principles.

It is the opinion of many Americans that the time is at hand to stop the kind of inflation caused by boosting wages faster than the productivity that underlies wages.

It is the opinion of many managers in the steel industry that now is the time to increase productivity, not wage rates, and that the way to begin is to regain certain management rights hamstrung by unwise and involuntary concessions to workers.

No one can punch out the answers to inflation and inefficiency on a machine — not even an electronic brain.

"Economic determinism" has not gone that far in the United States — not yet.

THE STEEL STRIKE was no spontaneous uprising of downtrodden workers. It was a systematic move in a never-ending "war of maneuver" between management and labor for advantage in an industrial contract that was open for renegotiation this year.

If all had gone well, the negotiations that opened last spring would have been successful; there would have been no strike.

If things had gone something less than well but not disastrously, there would have been a strike of moderate length.

But things have gone disastrously. There is no end in sight of the longest strike in history. The union seems determined to prolong the strike if it takes every dollar of its members' savings and the public's relief funds. Management seems determined to stand pat on its offer.

President Eisenhower had no choice. He had to look after the public welfare — the same welfare the disputants in the steel strike were willing to spurn in their attempts to get the upper hand.

It is part of the presidential job to grin and bear it when people need a scapegoat. Mr. Eisenhower will earn his money dodging sticks and stones in the steel dispute. But he will earn respect by doing what he had to do when the country began to run out of steel and he ran out of patience.

They Weren't Really That Smart

It may shock those who think there is a law about everything, but the quiz-show manipulators whose dikes are causing so much speculation committed no known crime.

They merely took advantage of the great Barnum's credo that there's a sucker born every minute and suckers like to be fooled. If Congress could cook up a law to protect the human race against gullibility, Utopia would be within reach.

Congressional investigators have shown interest in what apparently happened to make the quiz shows more suspenseful than they might have been if everything had been left to chance. Perhaps there needs to be a law about deception on television.

If there is, it will raise hobb with wrestling matches and a good many of the prizefights. It might cramp the style of performers who appear to be delivering their lines with verve and eclat when all they're doing is reading idiot cards.

But if it barred the possibility in the fu-

Town Hall Resumes

Tonight brings a resumption of the Salem Town Hall meetings for the 17th season, with Harrison Salisbury, Pulitzer prize winning writer of the New York Times delivering a timely lecture on "The Soviet Challenge."

In the light of Premier Khrushchev's recent United States visit and armed with facts from his own first-hand visit to Russia, Mr. Salisbury undoubtedly will get the Town Hall year off to an auspicious start.

Salem Town Hall is a civic project in adult education, although many of the programs are equally enjoyable by young people. Five other events remain on the 1959-60 schedule.

Strictly a community endeavor, Town Hall attracts a good audience but at times the patronage could be better. It is strictly a nonprofit institution supported by contributions of local people, yet there is never a door charge. The committee which perpetuates Town Hall is to be commended.

Once Over

Show biz and groceries are to be linked up, Channel 13, New York will bring TV programs into supermarkets, putting five to eight sets in a store.

Idea is that sponsors will gladly pay to reach buyers, especially housewives when they are not at home. (Will the wire-cart pushers demand a version of "Wagon Train"?)

Does it mean a grocery-trade Wyatt Earp to take tension off housewives having trouble locating the right soups? Will Texas Rangers provide the proper mood when shoppers battle among the cold cuts and soap powders?

Will Bat Masterson give the gals a little help in the crowded checkout-alleys?

Will "Search for Tomorrow" help in locating a specified cereal: How about "Battle at the O.K. Corral" as a special TV feature at the bargain pork chop counter?

May we see something called "I Love Groceries," "The Slice is Right," or "Beat the Stock"?

Announcement says supermarket shows will be as brief as one or two minutes, with commercials limited to 10 seconds. News reports, weather and comment will be featured and first Channel 13 man to be fired will be the fellow who allows a newscaster to read the report on rise in living costs to housewives about to load up on porthouse steaks.

Gals behind those wife-wagons have always seemed in deep concentration on groceries, not on entertainment. But you never can tell.

They may welcome being slowed down in a hunt for eggs, frozen fish, etc. Possible home dialogue:

"You're late for dinner, dear."

"Yeah, between the meat and the vegetables I got caught in the presentation of a new TV comic."

DETROIT THINKS two-car family will definitely arrive through the new demitasse models. We favor a small car for use when he don't owe a dime and the big car for use for driving up to the loan office when we need some money fast.

The U.S. Department of Justice may appeal the DuPont-GM suit again. It still thinks 10 years is not long enough for an over-time game.

"The Sound of Music," is the latest Rodgers Hammerstein-Lindsey-Crouse musical. This is something sensationally new, a musical comedy opening, without orchestra overture, in an abbey, with stage peopled only by Sisters of Mercy.

"Good Try --- You Can Have Your Foot Back Now"

The Army's Thinking

By RAY CROMLEY

The Army is trying to find out how to make a man think better.

The generals believe it would be a useful thing to cultivate—for meeting emergency battle situations. Or possibly for handling Congressional investigations.

Thus far, the experiments have the scientists confused.

There are indications that being well-fed helps, and getting a lot of sleep. And being comfortable.

But what to make of experiments like this:

They put a monkey into a cage. They then put a red block and a blue block in front of him. Every time he picks up the red block he gets a raisin reward. He's happy. Every time he picks up the blue block he gets nothing. He's sad.

THE MONKEY LEARNS, of course. So, being a smart monkey, he thinks and picks up the red block time after time. So far, so good.

But every once in a while — when he's still hungry and despite what he's learned—he picks up the blue block.

"Now why does he do that?" asks Army scientist Dr. P.O. Sperling. "He knows better, but he does it. People do the same thing. And when we know why monkeys do what they do, we'll know something more about why people decide to do what they do."

So far, research men at a University of Wisconsin Laboratory, have some evidence that seems to indicate it's one part of a monkey's brain that keeps him picking the red block. When that part is missing or not working—he picks up the erroneous blue more often. But what happens. No one knows.

THE ARMY IS SPONSORING a continuous series of experiments on this business of what affects the way you think. It's being done both at the U.S. Army Medical Research Center at Fort Knox, Ky. and at universities and private research laboratories.

A good chunk of the Army's work in trying to find out what hinders monkeys and men in solving problems and making decisions has been under the direction of Dr. Arthur J. Riopelle, now with the Yerkes Laboratory of Primate Biology at Orange Park, Fla.

Prof. Richard Henneman, at the University of Virginia, is working with college students. He's trying to find out how much your brain can take, hold and use effectively.

Dr. Arthur Melton, at the University of Michigan, is looking into what appears to be the ability of your muscles to reminisce.

The researchers have found a lot of things that affect the way you think. They've done experiments on men riding in trucks. Take an hour and a half jolly truck, jeep or bus ride, afterwards you don't think so well—or so it appears.

IF YOU'VE BEEN hearing a lot of loud noises, like an elevated railroad, a pneumatic hammer, a jet plane, gunfire, you apparently don't think so well. Apparently it takes you longer to solve problems. You seemingly use up more energy and become more tired when you do try to think.

The Army men have found that your ability to think varies according to whether it's day or night.

A man used to sleeping nights goes on a night shift. He's had a full eight hours of sleep. But he won't work so efficiently between midnight and dawn. At dawn, even though he's tired, he'll begin thinking better.

The Army men are even more confused about their experiments with "men in space." Space, presumably, is silent and dark. So they put men in a noiseless, unlighted room and study what happens. They find the men do poorly the first 48 hours, then, for no apparent reason, seem to pick up and do better.

Army men are closely following drug developments to see if there isn't some drug that would make a man think better, even for just a little while.

No one, unfortunately, has a good one yet.

The Army also is looking into trucks that won't jolt troops the wrong way, and into gadgets for rifles or artillery pieces that would give a soldier's ear a warning—and time to tense up—before every shot. That's so they can think better.

New Approach

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Steel Strike Fact-Finders Try Novel Method

The crisis brought on by the steel strike is based on a paradox. It is not simply that the two parties cannot agree on terms. Negotiations have broken down largely because the parties have not been able to agree on any method for finding out how to draft terms that would be acceptable to both.

That's why there is some hope in the so-called "fact-finding" board appointed by President Eisenhower. Oddly enough, the three experienced men appointed to that board will concern themselves not so much with finding facts as with devising machinery for settlement. There is nothing in the law to prohibit this unprecedented approach.

Dr. George Taylor, chairman of the President's board, teaches at the University of Pennsylvania. He began arbitrating contract grievances as far back as 1928 and has since served as impartial umpire for many companies and unions.

He was chairman of the National War Labor Board in 1945. He brings to the problem some constructive suggestions. His theory is that compulsory arbitration is undesirable but that voluntary arbitration is imperative. He described the difference in "U.S. News & World Report."

In an interview before he was told he had been selected by the White House to head the board that will investigate the steel strike, he said:

"Voluntary arbitration always remains in the control of the two parties in a dispute. You narrow down, by collective bargaining, the issues in disagreement. Then you agree to submit any remaining issues to arbitration."

"If you agree in advance to compulsory arbitration, you are committed to submit to an outsider any issues that may come up sometime in the future—regardless of what those issues are, or how important they are. If you agree in advance to arbitrate on such a broad front, you leave too many issues for the arbitrators to decide."

"I think compulsory arbitration is terrible. I wouldn't suggest it for a minute. If you agree, in advance, to arbitrate whatever people can strike about, you leave too many issues for the arbitrators to settle. There's no inducement for the parties to reach agreement on many of the minor issues that separate them."

These next few days will tax the ingenuity and versatility of the best minds in the field of voluntary arbitration. The result could be that the 80 days under the Taft-Hartley injunctions will not be wasted this time but will be constructively used.

DR. TAYLOR feels that the Taft-Hartley machinery for handling big strikes "is not adequate" and the procedures "should serve the same function as a strike—that is, get people to modify their extreme positions."

This is a hint of what may happen. There is reason to believe the White House shares Dr. Taylor's views and that his appointment was made with the very purpose of trying a different method than has been used before.

Heretofore, under Taft-Hartley procedures, the boards have been appointed merely to find facts and report them, not to make recommendations on the merits of the dispute or on machinery for settling them.

While steering clear of any recommendations on the terms themselves, the President's board may strive this time to get the parties to separate the issues into two categories—those that could be resolved by further bargaining, and those that require outside machinery of arbitration to be voluntarily set up by agreement with an understanding that recommendations would be accepted. This is the key to the whole problem.

THE ALTERNATIVE to all this is a dead-end street—government control and compulsory arbitration. Neither side wants this.

Both sides want a settlement, but the trouble has been that each side thought the other wanted unconditional surrender.

Basic principles are at stake, not wage rates alone.

Should management have the right to manage?

Once a working rule is established, is it permanent and never subject to change in the interest of efficiency?

The question turns on how far the working-rule changes would be applied. Here the demand arises for technicians. A voluntary-arbitration process can devise an answer to such questions by creating a machinery for settlement by experts.

Dr. Taylor is hopeful that the board can find a way. He says it is time for a new approach and that "inventiveness" is needed as much in the social sciences as in the physical sciences.

These next few days will tax the ingenuity and versatility of the best minds in the field of voluntary arbitration. The result could be that the 80 days under the Taft-Hartley injunctions will not be wasted this time but will be constructively used.

Labor Law Repeal Drive

By J. F. TER HORST

Teamster President James R. Hoffa is about to invest his big union's manpower and money in a bold political campaign to repeal the new labor reform law.

He hopes to accomplish this through a well-financed campaign at the precinct level around the country that will create a "labor bloc" in Congress starting with next year's elections.

The political program is Hoffa's way of combating what he considers "big business influence" in Congress. The format of the program is being drawn up by some of the Teamsters' chief political strategists.

It will be a broad departure from the political activities of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) and that of Hoffa's archival, President Walter P. Reuther of the United Auto Workers.

The 1,600,000-member Teamsters Union will shy away from identity with the Democratic party.

Political and lobbying efforts will be welded into one single unit to be termed a "national legislative and political action department."

Instead of contributing money to parties or candidates, Hoffa plans to set up Teamster precinct machines which will work for candidates "friendly" to labor.

THE NEWLY ENACTED labor reform law has been chosen as the No. 1 target because, as one Hoffa aide said: "It is something we can get the members excited about."

Hoffa and many of his top lieutenants were the whipping boys in the controversial congressional debate over passage of the law to curb union abuses and racketeering.

Money for the venture at the national level will come from the 40-cents-per-member levy that the Teamsters' 844 locals pay into the international treasury every month.

With additional financing at the regional and local levels, the Teamsters' new political campaign could total as much as several million dollars a year.

Teamster members will be asked to sign voluntary cards authorizing Hoffa and his assistants to spend dues money for political activity. In this way, Hoffa legally can spend union funds on federal elections without violating the law.

Hoffa believes the passage of the reform law is further proof that labor can't just enlist in the Democrat party cause. Too many Democrats in Congress, backed with labor money, voted for the bill.

"COPE has turned over dollars to politicians who were supposed to work in the precincts in the interest of labor," Hoffa said. "This system works only when the political party is in basic agreement with the ideals of the labor movement."

"It hasn't worked since the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947."

Organization of the Teamster campaign is being worked out by such union leaders as Vice President Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis, Mo., the Teamsters' "egg-head," David Previant, astute union attorney from Milwaukee and Sidney Zagari, Teamster's top lobbyist in Capitol Hill.

THE NATIONAL FOMAT contemplates a Washington legislative director, probably Zagari to coordinate the activities of four area conference political directors. They in turn would assist the grassroots work of joint councils and locals.

The plan follows the basic organization of the union itself.

Hoffa wants the union to concentrate on building voting strength in the "swing" or independent precincts — those which are neither Republican nor Democratic but hold the balance of power in many congressional races.

Precinct workers will not only help elect friendly congressmen but "keep the heat on" whenever a labor issue is being debated on Capitol Hill.

By thus unifying political and lobbying work, the Teamster boss says his rank-and-file members will have a "direct pipeline" to their senators and representatives. North American Newspaper Alliance

Looking Backward

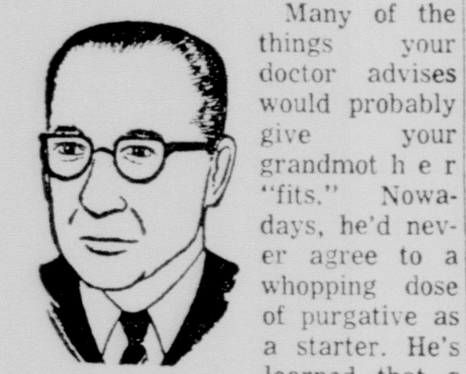

5 YEARS AGO — Mrs. Paul Campanelli, Mrs. Robert Osmondson and Mrs. Norman Flack were guests at the Tuesday meeting of the Welcme Wagon Bridge Club.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M. D.

Doctor Can Ease Cold's Discomfort

Although medical science hasn't yet learned to prevent or cure the common cold, your doctor can do a lot to make you more comfortable. In addition, he'll be able to handle complications without having to call in a specialist to operate on infected ears, to give just one example.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

Many of the things your doctor advises would probably give your grandmot her "fits." Nowadays, he'd never agree to a whopping dose of purgative as a starter. He's learned that a purge increases your discomfort, but doesn't blast a single virus from a stuffy nose or a scratchy throat.

He'll tell you to keep your room cool and well ventilated. He's learned from his own experience that sealing the bed-chamber and turning up the heat makes the nose stuffier and the throat scratchier, without suffocating your viral visitors.

HE'LL URGE YOU to get out of bed during the day, even if you have a fever, and to try sleeping in a chair at night. If you're like most of us you'll find you're more comfortable up and around.

He'll advise you to eat what and when you please. He's also learned that "starving a fever" weakens the patient, not the virus. He'll assure you that red meat won't send your fever higher. And he'll warn you to go easy on fruit drinks unless you want to blow up your abdomen tight as a drum.

He'll tell you not to waste your time tying a woolen sock around your neck or putting red flannel on your chest. If you think you'll be more comfortable with heavy covering, put on an old sweater or a sweat shirt.

He'll tell you not to waste your money on steam "kittles" or rubbings of wintergreen, camphorated oil or pine oils. After a while, they may irritate your nose but they won't bother the virus.

THESE ARE THE THINGS he's likely to tell you to do:

Take a long, hot shower and a cool wash-off. Or soak in a hot tub with a cool rag on your head. Before the shower or while you're tubbing, drink a pint or so of hot, sweetened tea with the juice of half a lemon. Spike the tea with a jigger of rum if you're accustomed to alcohol.

Take one or two plain aspirin tablets. If you want to get the added effect of caffeine, wash the tablet down with a cup of coffee or a cola beverage.

If aspirin upsets your stomach, try taking it with a bit of bicarbonate of soda or a drink of club soda. Or substitute phenacetin.

Put prescribed drops in your nose three or four times daily according to your doctor's recommendations. Properly used, they will shrink the swollen membrane in a few seconds or minutes, at most. Improperly used, or too often, they'll produce irritation and you'll feel worse.

This is the proper way to use nose drops: Lie down on one side until the upper nostril begins to clear. Introduce two or three of the prescribed drops along the floor of the clearer nostril. Close the nostril by finger pressure. After a minute or so, lie on your back. After another minute or so, turn over on your face. Gently blow secretion from the treated nostril while the other is shut off. Repeat in the other nostril.

If prescribed drops work well, ask your doctor to write down their name so you can get a fresh supply the next time without bothering him. If the drops don't work, ask him for a prescription for one of the many similar products and see if you have better luck.

If you're not able to lie down to clear your nose in the manner indicated above, ask your doctor for one of the products that can be inhaled from a pocket-size plastic container. But use sparingly, or you'll make your nose even stuffier.

IF YOUR COLD HANGS ON, your fever goes up or you develop head, ear or chest pain or a nasty cough, call your doctor right away. While a dose or a shot of penicillin or one of the related "miracle drugs" is useless against the cold virus, it will probably act like magic against bacteria that grow on tissues damaged by the virus.

By prompt and efficient action, your doctor then will be able to ward off or quickly control secondary infections like inflammations of nasal sinuses, ears, mastoid bone or lungs.

By sending for him without delay, you'll put him in a good position to save you from complications that used to prolong the period of illness and sometimes make it necessary to puncture ear drums or scrape out mastoid cells.

By dedication to your health and welfare, he'll lose income but he may save your hearing and, perhaps, your life or the life of one you hold dear.

Tomorrow: The Common Cold in Childhood.

'Down On The Farm'

News of Meetings, Helpful Hints For Farmers

Agriculture Prices Down

After advancing to a five-year high in March of last year, prices received for farm commodities turned downward and by mid-September of this year were off more than seven per cent from March of 1958, according to the Federal Reserve Bank.

This decline in the prices of farm products has had a stabilizing influence on the general level of wholesale prices of all commodities. Moreover, it has been an important factor in imparting some degree of stability to the consumer price index.

Marketing of agricultural products have been somewhat higher so far this year, but not sufficiently larger to compensate for a three per cent decline in the overall average of prices received for farm commodities, the Federal Reserve points out.

Swine Committee Meets

The Columbiana - Mahoning Counties Swine Producers Committee met recently in the Memorial Building.

Plans were made for the 1960 program. A tour of the Swine Evaluation Station at Columbus was discussed. A letter will be sent to all swine producers in the two counties to determine interest in such a trip.

The annual summer meeting will be held in July, 1960, at the farm of Leonard Lowmiller, RD 2, Minerva, announces Richard G. Schaffner, associate Mahoning County extension agent.

CARDMATES CLUB meeting was held recently in the home of Mrs. Bill Crookston of E. 8th St. Miss Shirley Brautigam and Mrs. Walter Woods were guests.

Prizes in the "500" games went to Mrs. Joseph Winkler and Mrs. Fred Baker.

Lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be Nov. 12 at the home of Mrs. Paul Harrington of E. 7th St.

OFFICERS were elected at the annual meeting of the Diehl Lake Women's Auxiliary recently at the home of Mrs. Henry Yeagley, with Mrs. Russell Shaffer as assistant hostess.

The new officers are: President, Mrs. Jack Pricer; vice president, Mrs. Walter Ibele; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Rehm; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Allan Kirk; and recording secretary, Mrs. Truman Bolyard.

A Halloween party is being planned for Oct. 25 at the club house.

Meeting of WSCS Marks Study of U.N.

"The Role of the United Nations" was the theme of the program at the recent monthly meeting of the Women's Society of the Christian Service held in the Methodist Church.

Mrs. James Cunningham was leader of the prayer service held in the chapel preceding the regular meeting.

Miss Eleanor McMurray, leader of the program, was assisted by a panel composed of Mrs. Charles Wiggers, Miss Phyllis Welsh and Miss Alice Whinery. The women discussed various agencies within the United Nations and the role churches assume in helping with this work.

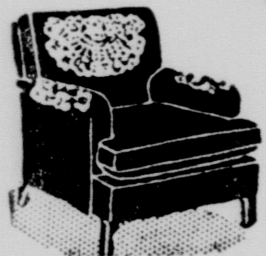

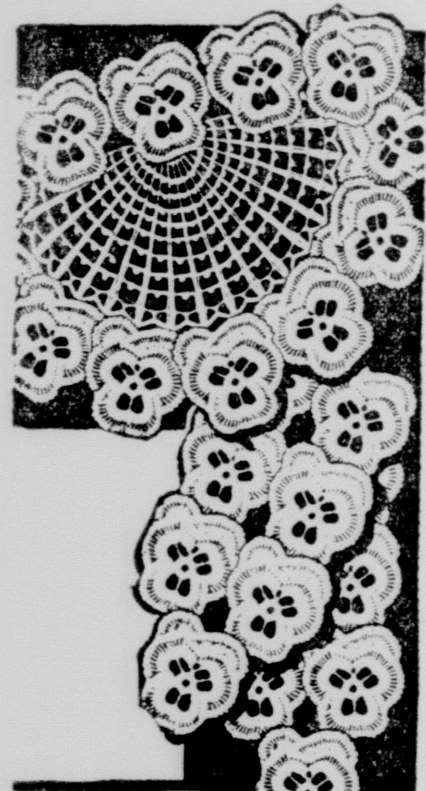

For devotions, Miss Martha Jane Frary presented a film, "The Sustaining Bread." Mrs. Kenneth Bowser played piano selections, and Mrs. William Keck read the words of the United Nations Hymn. A prayer for peace and the United Nations was given by Mrs. C. H. Waldron.

Members of the Crib and Cradle Group served on the hospitality committee, and members of the Hannah Gallagher Group provided a buffet lunch. The lace covered table was centered with an arrangement of yellow and brown marigolds.

The next monthly meeting will be Nov. 4 in the church. The Twila Hahn Group will be in charge of hospitality, and the Crib and Cradle members will serve as hostesses.

"Quiet Day" will be observed on Oct. 28 at the church. The morning session from 10:30 until 12 will be followed by a sack lunch period. There will be an afternoon session from 1:30 to 3 p.m., and an evening session from 8 to 9.

Pvt. and Mrs. Kit Glass

Laura Ammon, Kit Glass Are Married At Greenford

The sanctuary of Greenford Lutheran Church was the scene for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Laura Agnes Ammon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Ammon of RD 5, Salem, and Pvt. Kit Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arden T. Glass of RD 5, Salem.

Vases of white carnations, ivy, palms and seven branch candelabra decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Arvid E. Kuitunen.

Miss Darlene Beck of Greenford sang "O Perfect Love," "Because," "What God Hath Given," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Carol Jean Ceroky of Huntsburg, roommate of the bride.

The bride fashioned her gown of white slipper satin and lace, styled over princess lines. The lace bodice was designed with long sleeves and a scoop neckline, which was accented with lace flowers.

An open sequined bow held her elbow-length veil of nylon tulle. She carried white carnations and lilies of the valley on a white Bible. Her father gave her in marriage. She wore a heart-shaped rhinestone necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Irish green taffeta gowns, fashioned with dark green cummerbunds were worn by the bride's four attendants. They wore matching dark green taffeta Dior bows.

The maid of honor, Miss Karen Bush of Greenford, cousin of the bride, carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze mums and yellow carnations on a lace handkerchief.

The bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Robinette of Greenford, Miss Peggy Erickson of Burton, roommate of the bride, and Miss Sandra Hollick of Salem. Yellow mums and carnations formed their bouquets on similar lace handkerchiefs which were crocheted by the bride's mother.

Wayne Reichard of Poland served as Mr. Glass' best man. The ushers were Robert Montgomery of Columbiana, James Bennett, Lavern Crawford and David Plummer of Salem.

White carnations complemented the attire of the mothers of the couple. Mrs. Ammon chose a dark brown dress with burnt orange accessories, and Mrs. Glass wore a blue and green wool jersey dress with blue and black accessories.

Reception Held in Church

The reception followed in the church parish hall. Flowers surrounded the base of the two-tiered wedding cake which centered the bride's table. The hall was decorated in yellow, green and white.

The hostesses were Mrs. Lewis Brown and Mrs. Russell Bush of Greenford, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Robert Glass of Washingtonville, aunt of the bridegroom, and Miss Anne Bailey of Greenford.

Miss Linda Glass of Greenford, sister of the bridegroom, registered the 100 guests from Greenford, Salem, Burton, Huntsburg, Columbiana, Massillon, East Liverpool and Aliquippa, Pa.

Mrs. Glass is a sophomore at Kent State University and her husband is stationed with the Army at Fort Knox, Ky.

For her undisclosed wedding trip, the bride wore a beige knit suit with beige and black accessories and the carnation corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride will resume her studies while her husband is in the Army.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts at the rehearsal luncheon on Friday evening.

WCTU Convention Delegates Are Named

Mrs. Donald Mayhew of RD 2, Salem, president of the Columbiana County Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Mrs. Clifford Kerr, president of the Damascus WCTU, will represent the county organization at the annual WCTU convention Thursday evening through Monday in Warren. Representatives from the Winona Union and others from the Salem Union also will be in attendance.

Main speakers for the convention are Miss Isabelle McCorkindale of Australia, new president of the World WCTU; Miss Ethel Biddle of Evanston, Ill., National Youth Temperance Council secretary; and the Rev. Theodore Mayer, pastor of the hostess church, who will preach the convention sermon.

Rev. Mayer, a son of the late Rev. and Mrs. R. F. Mayer, is formerly of Salem. The Rev. R. F. Mayer was pastor of the Salem First Methodist Church some 40 years ago.

The annual state banquet will be held Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the church, and Miss Ethel Biddle will be the speaker. Miss McCorkindale will give addresses Friday and Sunday evening.

Gift-Wrapping Workshop Held by Garden Study Club

Mrs. Raymond Sturgeon of Youngstown conducted a gift wrapping workshop when she was guest speaker at a meeting of the Garden Study Club Monday evening in the Ruth Smucker House.

Other guests welcomed were Mrs. Fred Crowgey Sr. and Mrs. Roger Kinnavy.

Mrs. George Peterson presided at the business session. Members were reminded of a benefit project to be held Thursday and Friday in the storeroom on E. State St., which was previously occupied by the Gray Auto store.

Garden Center sponsored events were announced by Mrs. Louis Weirick. Tickets for a flower arranging program to be presented Nov. 4 by Robert Putt may be secured at the Garden Center in the Ruth Smucker House Friday afternoons, when the Center is open to make reservations with Mrs. the public. Anyone interested Weirick for the bus trip to Pittsburgh's Phipps Conservatory Nov. 12 to see the Chrysanthemum Show.

A workshop will be a feature of the regular Nov. 9 club meeting in the Smucker House at 8 p.m.

Eagles Auxiliary Sets Anniversary

FICTION

"Black Spice" by Davenport Stewart. A sashing tale about an American, Scott Rogers, who sails the "Caroline" to Samatra in 1815 to buy pepper. Scott finds plenty of adventure and romance when he rescues the beautiful captive of a notorious pirate.

"La Belle" by E. B. Coker. A fictional biography of a southern beauty who was forced by her mother to become a Confederate camp follower. Later she married a rich old man in New York and then left him to follow an errant lover to Paris.

"Baton Sinister" by C. J. Spintelli. During the sixteenth century war between the Moslems & Christians, Marco Spada, the illegitimate son of a Genoese nobleman, fights both national and personal battles and struggles for the right to the land of the beautiful Donna Elinda.

"Born of the Sun" by J. H. Culp. A western adventure in the difficult days following the Civil War. This is a novel of mood and description with overtones of fast paced action.

"Love and Money" by Noel Clad. A long rambling account of an Alsatian tourist who visits the United States in 1917. Max Armand liked this country, decided to stay and become a citizen. This book tells of his marriage and life during and between the two wars and the problems that he faced.

"Shadow of Guilt" by Patrick Quentin. George Hadley, married to a rich wife but in love with his secretary, tells of his nineteen-year-old niece's infatuation with a handsome blackmailer—and of the blackmailers sudden death.

"Spring Harvest" by Gladys Taber. The story of a small community in 1914. The college president tries to keep his family conflicts from interfering with his work, while others quietly struggle with similar personal problems.

"Stone Roses" by Sarah Gainham. A British Intelligence agent tells of his efforts to find and rescue Jan Skala from the Communists in Prague. His search is complicated by Jan's sister and her enigmatic fiancé.

"Taos" by I. R. Blacker. A long tale of the Indian uprising in New Mexico during the seventeenth century. Don Antonio de Otermin attempted to break up the bloody insurrection but ended up leading his people in a bitter retreat.

"Murder and Blueberry Pie" by Frances and Richard Lockridge. Detective Shapiro of New York has to take a hand at clearing up a murder mystery involving Lois and a newspaper.

NON-FICTION

"Coaching Pattern Play Basketball" by Bob Vanatta. A successful coach gives pointers on ways to combine basketball patterns of play with a fast break offensive.

"Days with Albert Schweitzer" by F. M. Franck. A collection of sketches, in picture and prose of the great humanitarian, Dr. Schweitzer. The author, a humanitarian in his own right started the first dental clinic in Lambaréne.

"Yoga for Americans" by Indra Devi. A six-weeks program in Yoga based on the author's own method. Instructions are given for relaxing nerves and muscles and for increasing the efficiency of the body functions.

"National Parks in California" by Dorr Yeager. Information on every aspect of the various National Parks located in California. The book includes detailed maps of each area, locations of various tourist attractions, Park regulations etc.

"Greek Historians" edited by M. I. Finley. Selections, each complete in itself, from such famous Greek historians as Herodotus, Thucydides and Xenophon.

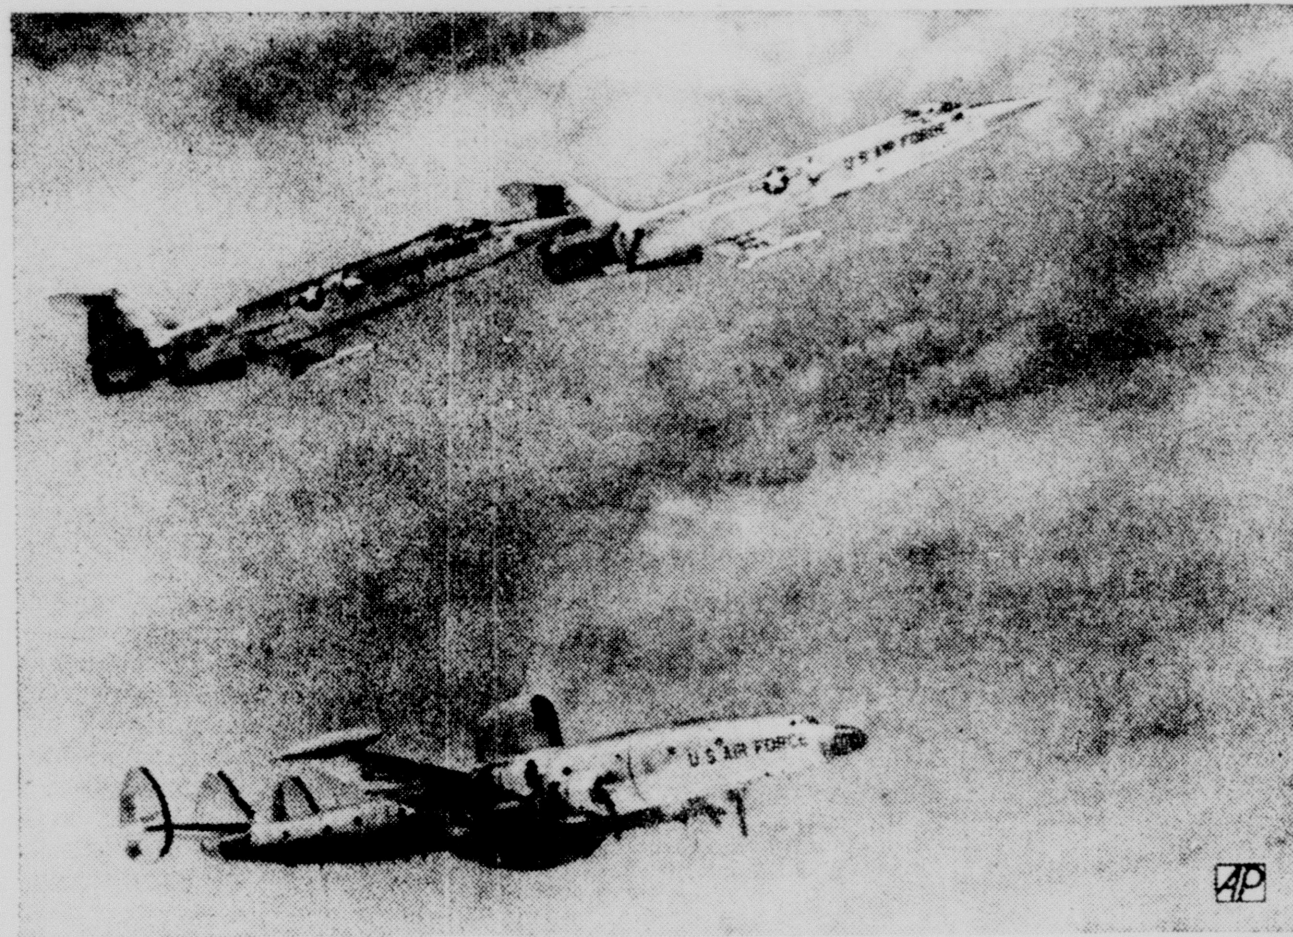

"Challenge of the Spaceship" by A. C. Clarke. Although the author is best known for his science fiction novels he is also a serious scientist. In this book he discusses the impact of the exploration of space upon humanity.

"Labor U.S.A." by Lester Velie. An unhurried and unprejudiced investigation into unions, their leaders, their employees, and all the benefits and abuses that have resulted from trade organizations.

"War Memoirs of Charles De Gaulle". This is the second volume of De Gaulle memoirs. It covers the period 1942 to 1944 and tells of his dealings with Roosevelt and Churchill and of his struggles to maintain the prestige of Free France.

"Letters From Mamma" by Cliff Arquette. Charlie Weaver fans will be happy to know that all the news from Mt. Ivy has been collected into one slender volume.

"Madrigal's Magic Key to French" by Margarita Madrigal.

SHIELD AND SWORDS — A pair of Lockheed F-104 Starfighters (top) fly with their Warning Star radar plane teammate in this picture which Lockheed says is the first aerial photo of the three flying together. The radar plane, according to Lockheed, is equipped with more than six tons of detection equipment. The Air Force fighters are armed with Sidewinder missiles.

British Timken, a subsidiary of Timken, operates plants in England and South Africa and has subsidiaries in Canada, Germany, France and Australia. Prior to buying out minority stockholders, Timken held 54 per cent of the British firm's stock.

SETTLEMENT REACHED

CLEVELAND (AP)—Negotiations in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court resulted in the $48,750 settlement of a personal injury lawsuit filed against the New York Central System by Martin J. Sendry of Cleveland. Sendry was struck by a NYC freight car in May 1955 while he worked at the Euclid Division of General Motors Corp.

SOHIO TO BUY FIRM

CLEVELAND (AP)—For an estimated $1,700,000 in Sohio stock, Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) has contracted to buy Leonard Refineries, Inc. of Alma, Mich. The joint announcement Tuesday said Leonard will operate as a Sohio subsidiary without change in personnel, brand name or distribution. Leonard stockholders will vote on the transaction Dec. 10.

Tiresome Remarks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Teen-age remarks that parents get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"I'll do it later."

"The trouble with you and Dad is that you've forgotten what it's like to be young."

"Hey, Sis I hear Dad got a five-buck raise. Let's ask him to double our allowance."

"I know it's a weekend night, Joe, but you'd better go now—even if it is early. The old folks need their rest."

"Hey, Mom, can I borrow $19.96 to take this muscle — building course by mail?"

"Mother, pull-lease act your age. You can't wear a dress that short. It makes you look ridiculous."

"You think the pictures in your family album are funny? Boy, wait'll you take a look at ours."

"What makes all parents such squares? Were they born that way?"

"Sure, I said I'd cut the grass and I will — tomorrow, when it's cloudy. You don't want a fellow to get sunstroke, do you?"

"You know how hard Dad says he had to study when he was a kid? Well, I found one of his old high school report cards in the attic, and guess what?"

"Tell me, Mom, what was life really like in the old days, when you were young?"

"What's wrong with me, Mom? Here I am 13 — and not even going steady."

"Yeah, I'm looking for a job after school, too — about five years after."

"I don't see why you're so shocked at what I wrote in my diary. I found some of your old love letters and."

"Why can't I? Every other kid my age does."

"Every family in the block has a new car but us."

"If you think I tie up the phone so much, why can't I have a phone of my own?"

"Papa, what's a depression?"

"Yeah, and they danced something called 'the Charleston and the Big Apple,' and made fudge in the kitchen. Weren't they quaint?"

"Wonder what Dad looked like when he had hair. Was he handsome?"

"He says that since it's Saturday night we can stay out until midnight. Big deal!"

"Well, if the television's broke,

I guess I might as well do my homework."

"Go on, Dad, the walk'll do you and Mom good. I can't spare the car tonight."

"What do you and Pop know about love anyway?"

NORWOOD CUTS TAXES

CINCINNATI (AP)—City Council of nearby Norwood has agreed to cut property taxes about $2 per $1,000 valuation, dropping the tax rate to $23.43. The action Tuesday night came after Mayor Joseph Shea said a tax on earnings has provided income more than enough to pay off ending debts for 1960.

LAKE CAPTAIN DIES

CLEVELAND (AP)—Andrew J. Ra'hbun, 68, who retired as master of the Edward B. Greene in 1956 after 49 years with the lake fleet of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., died Tuesday at his home in Berea.

THIS WOULD BUY!

You could do a lot of wise shopping with $300 or so. But wouldn't you hate to see that much of your money being spent unnecessarily by someone else?

Sad to relate, that's just about what will happen if the lobbyists for federal "public power" have their way. They are after some $10,000,000,000 of tax money to put the federal government farther into the electric business.

This would cost each American family about $200. And this on top of about $100 per family already spent for so-called "public power"!

Of course, you don't begrudge necessary taxes. But this "public power" spending is quite unnecessary. For independent electric light and power companies like yours are ready and able to supply all the low-price electricity people will need—without depending on your family's taxes.

Unnecessary "public power" spending goes on simply because most people don't know about it. So spread the word among your friends and neighbors. As soon as enough people know, you can be sure it will be halted.

Cloud Hangs Over Ingo's Return Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — A heavy cloud today hung over the proposed return world heavyweight championship bout between Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson in the wake of findings by the New York State Athletic Commission.

After hearing 800 pages of testimony on the manipulations of the promotion of the first fight last June 26, the commission Tuesday:

1. Directed Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager and Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the bout along with his former organization, Rosensohn Enterprises, to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

2. Banned Charles Antonucci (Charlie Black) from promoting or even attending a fight in New York state.

3. Recommended that the state Legislature enact a law requiring the licensing of the company or individual who controls the television, radio and movie rights to fights.

The action left the future of the return bout up in the air. Johansson, who is making a movie in Helena, Mont., declined comment, but a spokesman said he still was willing to fight Patterson if the mess is cleaned up.

One direct result of the commission's findings is that the return won't be held in New York. Vincent Velella, the current head of Rosensohn Enterprises, is not licensed in New York, so the commission couldn't bar him. By revoking the license of Rosensohn Enterprises, it achieved the same result.

The commission hearing was called when it developed that Rosensohn actually owned only one-third of Rosensohn Enterprises and that the other two-thirds was held by Velella. Rosensohn eventually was tossed out by Velella who brought in Irving Kahn, who held the TV, radio and movie rights.

Black was barred apparently because he worked for D'Amato.

Kent State Alumni Will Honor Editor

Oct. 24, Kent State University's Journalism Alumni Assn. will honor Murray Powers at a homecoming luncheon.

Powers is managing editor of the Akron Beacon Journal and is in his 20th year of teaching journalism at Kent State. His classes always are scheduled on Thursday, a day off from his Akron job.

More than 100 graduates are expected to attend the luncheon. They will present some books to Powers, as a nucleus for a journalism reading room.

Powers is 58. He began his newspaper work with the Springfield (Ohio) Sun in 1922. He held assignments with the Dayton Journal and three Brush-Moore newspapers, the Marion Star, Portsmouth Times and Canton Repository, before joining the Beacon Journal a quarter-century ago. He has been managing editor more than 10 years.

Powers is a former officer of The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. and The Associated Press Society of Ohio.

Steel

proved efficiency and economy of operations."

Union President David J. McDonald completed the union's arguments before the board Tuesday night. The union claims the company's cry of inflation is phony. McDonald also said the companies would get their way in changing local working conditions only "over our dead bodies."

Cooper said in his statement the companies "are not trying to undermine or destroy the union. They do not seek to take away the basic rights of any employee. They are not asking for the arbitrary right to change local work practices without employee recourse to grievance procedure and arbitration."

Cooper's statement seemed to place even farther from likelihood any negotiated settlement, which would make the Taft-Hartley 80-day injunction unnecessary.

Referring to recent last-ditch negotiations, Cooper said "I cannot truthfully report to this board that the union made any discernible effort to reach a voluntary agreement as requested by President Eisenhower."

The fact-finding board has been sharply critical of both sides in the dispute. George W. Taylor, the panel's chairman, expressed hope the industry would tell its side in the same time it took the union.

Nobody feels an injunction would lead to a settlement. But it at least would get steel mills fired up again to relieve the developing steel shortage. There are 500,000 strikers and at least 225,000 others made idle due to the strike.

The union has said flatly it will seek to block issuance of any court injunction to stop the strike.

It said there is plenty of steel, with nearly 15 per cent of the industry not affected by the strike, plus some imports, to take care of essential needs and prevent harm to the nation's health and safety.

Taylor said the inquiry board will continue trying for a settlement but it would take "a miracle of the first order" if one is wanted this week.

British Plan Major Drive On Diplomacy

LONDON (AP)—Britain is planning a major diplomatic drive to improve relations with West Germany after seven months of bickering with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Relations between London and Bonn have been frankly bad since Prime Minister Harold Macmillan journeyed to see Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow last February at the height of the Berlin crisis. Macmillan went without first consulting Adenauer.

Now the British leader has ordered his experts to get cracking on a program to restore relations between the two countries. He has given the task top priority.

Each government has its explanation for the strains and stresses existing between them.

Adenauer has tended to blame the British press, which he suspects is inspired by people he once described as "wire-pullers" in the Foreign Office.

Macmillan and his associates have been inclined to find fault with Adenauer himself. Some have speculated out loud whether the chancellor, at 63, is up to the burdens of office and is still able to follow new concepts of allied policy.

Adenauer told newsmen Tuesday that anti-German discord from the British public and press has saddened him. He said he had complained of this to Macmillan when they met last March.

Some British newspapers don't conceal their dislike of Adenauer.

On the essentials of foreign policy the two countries march in step, although they sometimes take different routes to get to the same objective.

The British and West German attitudes appear to be the result of rival interpretations of the world situation and the chances of dealing with the Communist world.

Adenauer evidently thinks any deal with the Soviet Union must be at Germany's expense. He rejects any role implying an inferior status.

Macmillan seems to reason that the facts of life in the nuclear age have to be faced and one is that Germany is not going to be united again on allied terms.

Loud Booms Blamed On Jet Aircraft

High flying jet aircraft shook homes and rattled windows Tuesday evening and this morning in the Salem area as they picked up additional thrust and cracked the sound barrier.

The first break-through came at about 6:15 p.m. Tuesday and the second boom was at 1:53 this morning.

A check with the base operation officer at the Youngstown Air Force Base disclosed there were no planes flying out of that base last night which could have caused the boom.

National Guard planes at Pittsburgh are "capable" of cracking the barrier, the officer said. He added the jets could have been from Lockborne base in Columbus or Wright-Patterson field in Dayton.

It is the policy of the Youngstown air base to crack the sound barrier at no less than 35,000 feet, the operations officer said. In level flight, the sound created would be hardly noticeable, he explained.

Canton Driver Unhurt As Car Leaves Road

A 49-year-old Canton driver escaped injury this morning at 1:30 when he lost control of his auto on a curve and went off the right side of Alternate Rt. 14, about one mile west of Washingtonville, the Highway Patrol said.

Patrolmen added that William L. Hart Jr., 49, was cited for running off the road.

Eisenhower

has, for me, a very deep, sentimental meaning."

At a late afternoon reception, the cake was cut. Eisenhower passed out bits of his portion to fluttering ladies in the audience.

Some of the ladies were so overcome they couldn't eat the cake. The cake-cutting began with a bit of comedy.

"Where's Charley?" Eisenhower asked.

In Abilene, this question needs no explaining. It means, where is Charley Case?

Case, a frisky 81, had shaken the President's hand and then gone across the street to his home. Secret Service men hustled over and told Case he was wanted, so he hurried back again.

"I've known him ever since he was 12 years old," Case said.

"He's a great guy."

As Eisenhower said at the luncheon, it was a time to be renewing old associations.

Here, too, was a moment that by request went unobserved by the ever-present newsmen. Eisenhower for a quiet visit to the cemetery hower and his brother, Milton, slipped away during the afternoon where their parents are buried.

Missouri Man Admits 2 Slayings

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"I saw him doing my job. I thought he should be dead."

That's the explanation offered by ex-convict Peter Fester Bridges for the knife murders of a woman and her brother in suburban Webster Groves. Bridges signed a statement Tuesday admitting the slaying.

Bridges, a gnome-like Negro who welded two meat cleavers in a bloody uprising at Menard (Ill.) Penitentiary in 1952, said he killed 56-year-old Cecil Giles because it was the second time Giles had "deprived me of my work."

Giles' sister, Mrs. Alice Haas, 52, saw him knifing Giles, and "I meant to finish the job I had started. I'm sorry it had to happen to her but she could identify me," he said.

Bridges was freed from Menard in January. The prison psychiatrist, Dr. Groves Smith, described him as psychopath who has an antisocial personality. But, said Dr. Smith, Bridges underwent an apparent personality change some time ago, hastening his release.

The victims' bodies were found Monday in the basement of the Haas home by Mrs. Haas' stepson, 9-year-old David.

Police were informed Bridges had been seen at the Haas home shortly before the bodies were found. He was picked up Monday night and steadfastly denied the slayings until a lie detector test indicated he was lying.

He has been charged with first degree murder.

Bridges had been working as a handyman at the Haas home off and on since June. Giles had been staying there for two weeks, doing the same work.

The other time Giles caused him to lose work, Bridges said, was when both were employed on a farm near Sparta, Ill. Giles was his foreman.

Bridges served 25 years in two terms at Menard, both for assault with intent to murder.

Antarctic Confab Opens On Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 12-nation antarctic conference opening here Thursday may provide the world with a pilot project for an international inspection system against secret military bases.

Even though the project would operate in the frozen wastelands of the south polar area, experience gained by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and other participating nations could prove extremely useful in developing more elaborate systems to safeguard eventual disarmament agreements.

The Soviet government has assigned Vasily V. Kuznetsov, first deputy foreign minister, to head its delegation of diplomats, legal experts and scientists. The negotiations will open with a welcoming address by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

The aim of the conference is to produce a treaty which would eliminate international friction by freezing national claims on antarctic territory, dedicate the south polar continent to peaceful uses and assure scientific cooperation in exploring the vast regions of ice and snow.

Antarctica is more than 1½ times the size of the United States and most of it is covered by many thousands of feet of ice.

In preparatory negotiations over 15 months, representatives of the 12 conference countries are reported to have reached substantial agreement that a treaty provision committing the continent to peaceful uses should be backed up by an international inspection system.

If this understanding is now translated into a formal agreement, signed and ratified by all the interested countries, it will provide the first large scale system for international inspection requiring the cooperation of the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers.

Girl

More than anything else she wants to be on the staff of the Lee Edwards High School newspaper. Her teacher laughingly told her it might help if she'd wait outside the governors' hotel and interview one of them.

So Janice trotted into the swank Grove Park Inn Monday and strode up to Alabama Gov. John Patterson.

"This," she said to a friend, "is my cute lil' ole governor from Alabama and that's where I used to live, sir, and do you know—"

Gov. Patterson later admitted, "She completely snowed me. That's quite a sharp young lady. She mentioned some prominent people in Birmingham."

The Alabama governor doesn't quite know how it happened, but he invited Janice to come to a big funfest, reception, banquet and dance that night, at which North Carolina was the host.

It was at a Mt. Mitchell luncheon that she persuaded Gov. Hodges and other chief executives to "live it up a little" by dancing on a handstand.

Hodges accepted her dare to do the Charleston.

"I had no idea I could do it," said Hodges.

"Golly, you're real cool," said Janice.

Burial will be at Harlem Springs Cemetery near Bergholz.

Friends may call tonight at the funeral home.

Nixon Heads For Vacation In Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon heads for West Palm Beach, Fla., Thursday for a vacation before stepping up his politicking next month.

At a time when New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller remains undecided whether he will contest Nixon for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, the vice president gives every evidence of confidence he could win such a battle if it develops.

LSU, Northwestern Again Favored In Weekend Grid Frays

Purdue Picked To Dump OSU

Texas Gets Nod Over Arkansas

NEW YORK (AP) — Football coaches get hung in effigy when their best calculations prove wrong but football forecasters just take on another list of games. Here's the newest batch of picks with the warning that 14 of 56 selections were wrong last weekend for a .750 average.

Louisiana State over Kentucky: The Wildcats have fallen on lean days while LSU has won 16 in a row and should make it 17 with ease.

Northwestern over Michigan: Perhaps by as much as two touchdowns.

Texas over Arkansas: Texas speed to prevail over Arkansas stubbornness.

Auburn over Georgia Tech: The Plainsmen will try to make every one forget they lost their opener to Tennessee by a field goal.

Mississippi over Tulane: It is the Mississippi homecoming.

Purdue over Ohio State: The Buckeyes have been shut out in their last two games. It could be three straight after this bruiser.

Southern California over Washington: Two unbeaten West Coast titans. The Trojans rested last week.

Syracuse over Holy Cross: Two more unbeaten clubs. Syracuse gets revenge for one-point setbacks the past two seasons.

Elsewhere:

Wisconsin over Iowa: Penn State over Boston University; Illinois over Minnesota; Tennessee over Alabama; Southern Methodist over Rice; Air Force over Oregon; Army over Duke.

Barons Turn Back Quebec Aces 5-1

By The Associated Press
The Quebec Aces are finding competition tough in their first year in the American Hockey League.

Before a home-town crowd of 7,041 they lost their fourth game in five starts Tuesday night, bowing to the Cleveland Barons, 5-1. It was the Barons' first victory in three starts.

Ed Hoekstra scored twice for Cleveland, and Greig Hicks, Eddie Mazur and Michel Labadie each contributed one goal.

Unbeaten Providence plays at Hershey in the only game Wednesday night.

East Palestine Game Time Is Compromise

The football game at East Palestine Friday between the Bulldogs and Austintown Fitch will get underway at 7:15 p.m. EST.

On the season schedule, kickoff time is listed as 7:45. The 7:15 p.m. starting time was a compromise between the East Palestine school which is on standard time and Austintown which observes Daylight Savings time.

United School Grid Queen, Attendants

Shirley Hawkins, pictured center above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester C. Hawkins of RD 3, Salem, will be crowned homecoming queen Saturday at the United-Western Reserve game. A senior, she is taking the college preparatory course. She was Future Farmers of America queen this year, queen of the junior-senior prom last spring, junior football queen attendant last year, a member of the high school chorus and a cheerleader for four years. Her attendants (clockwise from left) are Judy Hoyt, a freshman; Sally DeVille, sophomore; Janice McCullough, junior; and Dolores Hall, senior. The election was conducted by Student Council at United School near Hanoverton.

Quakers' Opponent For Friday Night

Akron Hoban to Put Record on Line Here

Akron Hoban, which has supplanted St. Vincent as the top high school football power in Akron, will give the Salem Quakers a clean slate to shoot at Friday night at Reilly Stadium.

Playing their toughest schedule since hitting the football wars on a full-time basis four years ago, Hoban has rolled over three opponents this season. The Knights have defeated Akron St. Vincent 16-14; Barborton 20-0; and Akron St. Mary 32-12.

Hoban will enter the Salem game with a two-week rest. They had an open date last week.

The Knights were 8-1 last season, losing only to Cuyahoga Falls.

Moore and Charlie Schwarz, 170-pound senior.

THE HALFBACKS and fullback are also good receivers. Running opposite O'Reilly at left halfback is Dave Englehart, 170-pound senior. The fullback is Mike Dudoch, 175-pound senior.

Coach Zupke two-platoons his guards. On offense he uses Les Radwany and Al Hockwalt, both 165-pound seniors. Zupke gets some additional beef on the defensive line. He inserts Ernie Fortney, 190-pound junior, and John Shannon, 160-pound junior. Neither won a letter last year.

In a third defensive switch, John Lapkowski, 170-pound junior, comes in for Leonard in the backfield.

Dick Capotosta, 170-pound senior, goes both ways at center.

The line averages about 180 pounds and the backs, 170.

Kent State Faces Marshall Saturday

Kent State University's confused football followers have their fingers crossed in hopes that the on-again, off-again Flashes will be on-again Saturday when they tangle with a vastly improved Marshall College team at Huntington, W. Va.

The Flashes were definitely "on" last Saturday when they engineered a stunning 14-6 upset over Miami University. The win put Kent State back into contention for the Mid-American Conference title.

"It just shows what happens when defensive assignments are carried out," Kent coach Trevor Rees said.

"A week before, our team didn't carry out its assignments and we got licked by Ohio University 46-0."

Kent came through the Miami game in good physical shape. First team center Joe Chapon suffered a knee injury and is the lonely player on the doubtful list for Saturday's game.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

My telephone has practically "jumped off the wall" with numerous telephone calls regarding the new rules and regulations that apply to ducks and geese while others contact me at my home when they can find me there.

In simple words here are some of the things you should know about ducks: The season lasts from noon, Oct. 16, through Nov. 24. After the first day the legal shooting hours are sunrise to sunset.

On Oct. 17, the first morning for sunrise shooting, the sun rises at 6:36 a.m. and sets at 5:40 p.m. On Oct. 16, the first day of the duck season, the sun sets at 5:42 p.m.

THE DAILY BAG LIMIT for ducks is four with eight in possession after the first day. Here is what you have to watch: you are allowed one canvasback, one redhead or one ruddy duck.

It is emphasized that so long as a person has one of these species in possession he may not take or possess another of such species. In the total possession limit you are allowed one woodcock and one hooded merganser.

As for geese, the season opens on the 16th along with ducks but the season is longer for geese. It ends Dec. 24, a month later, than the duck season. This won't excite our local nimrods as very few geese visit this county during the fall migration.

The bag and possession limits for geese may include not more than (a) two Canada Geese or its subspecies; (b) two white-fronted geese; or (c) one Canada Goose or its subspecies and one white-fronted goose. The total possession limit is five at all times.

A word of warning: don't shoot the first white "goose" you see unless it has black wing tips. The big "white geese" are whistling swans that are protected by state and federal laws.

There is absolutely no excuse for shooting a whistling swan under the pretense that "you thought it was a snow goose."

The few geese that visit this area are usually chased right out of the county by the trigger-happy sky blazers blasting away at geese flying a quarter of a mile high in the air.

ANOTHER MUST: If you intend to hunt within the law, be sure you have your gun lugged with a wooden or metal filler, incapable of being removed without taking the gun apart, if you use a semi-automatic or hand operated pump gun capable of holding more than two shells in the magazine.

In plain words you are not allowed more than three shots.

I might mention here the Py-maturing season for waterfowl comes in at noon, Oct. 24, through Dec. 11.

Ohio residents should be sure they have a resident hunting license plus a $3 Federal Duck Stamp. Also keep in mind the shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset.

Forget all about last years regulations. Obey the new rules and regulations and good luck to you.

Mercer, Julian Win Wrestling Matches

Marvin Mercer of Reading, Pa., defeated Oscar Verdu of Spain in the feature match of the fall season wrestling show of the fall season held Tuesday night at the Hi-Neighbor dance hall.

Frank "Toar" Julian of Salem defeated Oscar Verdu of Spain in straight falls. Chief White Owl received the decision over Ali Pasha in the opening match when the Turk was disqualified.

Julian, who promoted the show, said 350 persons attended.

Slaby In Action At Pitt Saturday

PITTSBURGH — Lou Slaby of Salem will be the starting fullback when the University of Pittsburgh freshman team makes its first appearance of the season Saturday against Penn State at University Park.

Coach Bimbo Cecconi plans to start Jim Traficant of Youngstown Cardinal Mooney at quarterback. He and the 211-pound Slaby will be the only starters who do not hail from Pennsylvania.

Penn State, which has been nabbing the top players in the area in the last few years, will be meeting the best Pittsburgh freshman crop since the 1953 class which included All-American Joe Walton, Corny Salvaterra, Bob Pollock and Vince Scorsone.

This freshman team has tremendous linemen although the ends are just average. The backs are good although a breakthrough runner isn't on the scene.

Jackson-Milton Star Sidelined by Injury

Coach Dave Kimmel of Jackson-Milton High School reported today that fullback Ed Gorgie, the team's top offensive threat, will be out of the lineup for at least two weeks because of a knee injury.

Gorgie was injured during last week's 14-14 tie game with North Lima. The fullback has accounted for three of his team's seven touchdowns this season.

Tim Dent, who has some varsity experience in the backfield, is the likely starter at fullback in Saturday's game at Lowellville against the undefeated and league-leading Rockets. Jackson - Milton has three losses and a tie in Inter-County League competition.

Guide To Good Bowling--3

Keeping Feet Close to Floor Is Secret of Smooth Delivery

By BILLY WELU

People have often complimented me on the fact that during my entire bowling delivery my motion is free of jerky movements. Aside from the fact that I "look good" to the gallery, I have another good purpose for keeping my approach smooth.

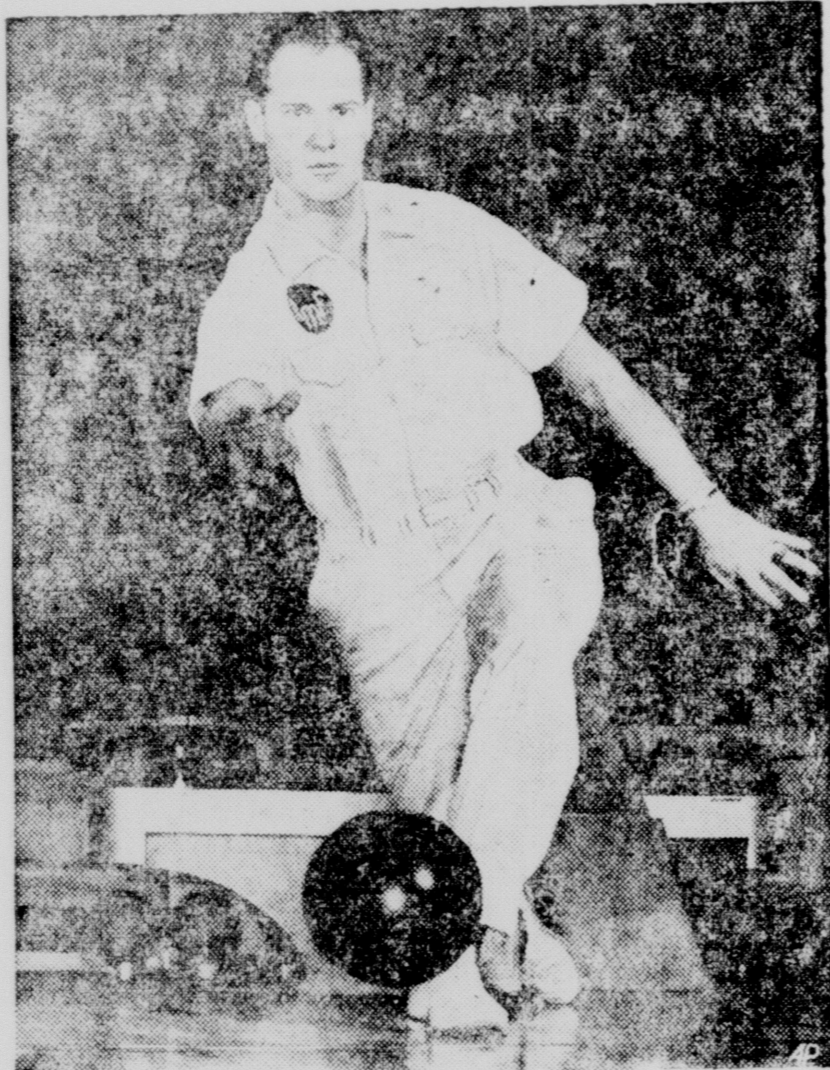

It all goes back to that pendulum arm motion that you hear and read about. As you know, the ball should swing in as near perfect a pendulum arc as possible as you approach the foul line. Now, when you allow this arc to vary off line as it were, you are almost certain to either "loft" and ounce the ball out onto the lanes or release it behind your left or sliding foot. As the professional bowler would say, "You'll be out of time."

I've found the best way to keep my delivery smooth (and that simply means keeping the ball in a smooth arc) is to concentrate on keeping my feet as close to the floor during my approach as possible. In other words, no hops, skips or jumps. I take small, shuffling steps at all times and let the ball swing freely from the shoulder. In that way, I prevent my body from bobbing up and down, and not only look smooth, but can control the ball better. It actually feels lighter in my hand and that's important, especially when you come in a test such as the All-Star tournament which runs 100 games.

I know there are many things for the novice bowler to think about as he makes his delivery, but I believe one of the easiest things to master is simply staying close to the floor with the feet while delivering the ball. Your bowling approach should be similar to your natural walking pace, rhythmic and well-coordinated.

TOMORROW: Adjusting the hook.

THE SMOOTH DELIVERY — Billy Welu says the secret of this smooth approach, for which he is often complimented, is keeping the feet as close to the floor as possible.

DRAG EVENT SCHEDULED

Drag racing fans will get a chance to see the world's champion Don Garlits dragster in action at Howland Drag Raceway on Sunday. Piloting the Chrysler will be Art Malone of Tampa, Fla. The Garlits dragster holds the world record speed mark of 186.33 mph for the quarter-mile and also the world's elapsed time mark of 8.23 seconds.

Sunday will conclude the 1959 racing season at Howland Raceway. Some 300 cars will be on hand for the Gold Cup Sweepstakes meet. Time trials begin at 10 a.m. and the first race at 2 p.m.

LISBON MAN'S PRIZE CATCH

— Guide Jim Ogesi strains to hold up the 110-pound sturgeon landed by Francis Clunk (right) of Lisbon in the French River, Ontario, Canada. Clunk's prize is the largest fish ever caught in the French River with a hook and line. Clunk was in a party of eight area sportsmen who recently returned from the fishing trip.

Buckeyes' Grid Drill Called Just So-So

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It wasn't a case of dishpan hands, rather it was gripping the pigskin Tuesday as Ohio State's quarterbacks got rubber gloves.

The day's rainy, slippery practice was termed "just so-so" by Coach Woody Hayes.

Brown Again Leads NFL In Rushing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cleveland's Jim Brown, who set a National Football League record of 1,327 yards rushing in 1958, leads this year with 314 yards on 78 carries and a 4-yard average in three games, statistics released today showed.

Ollie Matson of Los Angeles is second with 282 yards on 46 carries for a six-yard average. Third is J. D. Smith of San Francisco with 253 yards in 5 carries good for a 4.7 average.

Quarterbacks Ralph Guglielmi and Eddie Lebaron of Washington are tied for second. Each has caught 16, but Berry's catches were good for 263 yards compared with Gifford's 184. Bob Senkler is next with 15 catches and 293 yards.

Tommy McDonald, Philadelphia Eagles, leads in scoring with five touchdowns for 30 points.

Freshmen to Face Boardman Thursday

Salem's freshman football squad will travel to Boardman Thursday in search of its first victory of the season.

The Quakers have one blemish on their slate, a 26-2 defeat at East Liverpool Westgate. One game scheduled with Columbiana was canceled and a contest slated for last Thursday with Alliance State Street was postponed because of rain.

The Alliance game may be rescheduled here Oct. 22. This date is open on the Salem schedule.

Voters Will Decide County Home Proposal

Need, Costs Are Debated

Present Structure Almost Beyond Repair

By LARRY HAWSE

Columbiana County's commissioners are asking the county's voters to approve a $989,000 bond issue for the construction of a new county home when they go to the polls Nov. 3.

The new home for the aged, as well as some mental cases, would be situated on a five-acre tract of land inside the 400 acres comprising the present county home site. The bonds would be retired through an increase in property taxes.

Additional taxes would amount to 48 cents per thousand dollars valuation for a period of approximately 23 years, Columbiana County Commissioner R. Max Gard said.

He added, however, that increased valuation of the tax duplicate may lead to a reduction in the millage or the number of years countians would pay the added tax rate.

Based on a property tax valuation of about $3,500 for the average home, the cost per house each year would amount to $1.75. Properties are currently being evaluated at approximately one-third of their actual value.

But before the voters go to the polls and cast their decisions for or against the proposed county home, arguments and discussions will flare up over the pros and cons of the controversial bond issue.

ALREADY THE SIDES are lining up in Salem. At a recent Republican rally, when the question of supporting the county home issue was brought up, two prominent local Republicans voiced objections to the measure.

Basically the dispute centers around two points. Is a new county home needed? Does it have to cost most a million dollars?

Commissioner Gard answers "yes" on both questions. Other people say, "I'm not sure." The final decision will rest with the voters Nov. 3.

In support of his contention a new county home is necessary, Gard is asking individuals and civic groups to tour the establishment about four miles west of Lisbon and see for themselves.

In the invitation sent out to various groups by Commissioners Gard, Frank C. Wilson and Walter A. Hunston, the commissioners state:

"... the Columbiana County home is in a very bad state of disrepair, and will continue to get worse. Cost estimates to bring it to a state of repair demanded by the state inspector for the Industrial Commission of Ohio would amount to approximately $35,000. This would be a makeshift measure only, and in a few years more repairs would be needed, throwing good money after bad.

"The condition under which these senior citizens have to live is unthinkable," the commissioners add. The board continues by saying it "righteously wishes to correct these intolerable conditions."

EARLY THIS YEAR, Paul Baxter of the State Building Inspector's office toured the county home. The commissioners received his report Feb. 13 with orders to clean out years' accumulation of odds and ends from the laundry building which sits across the road from the main buildings of the home. This, Gard said, was done.

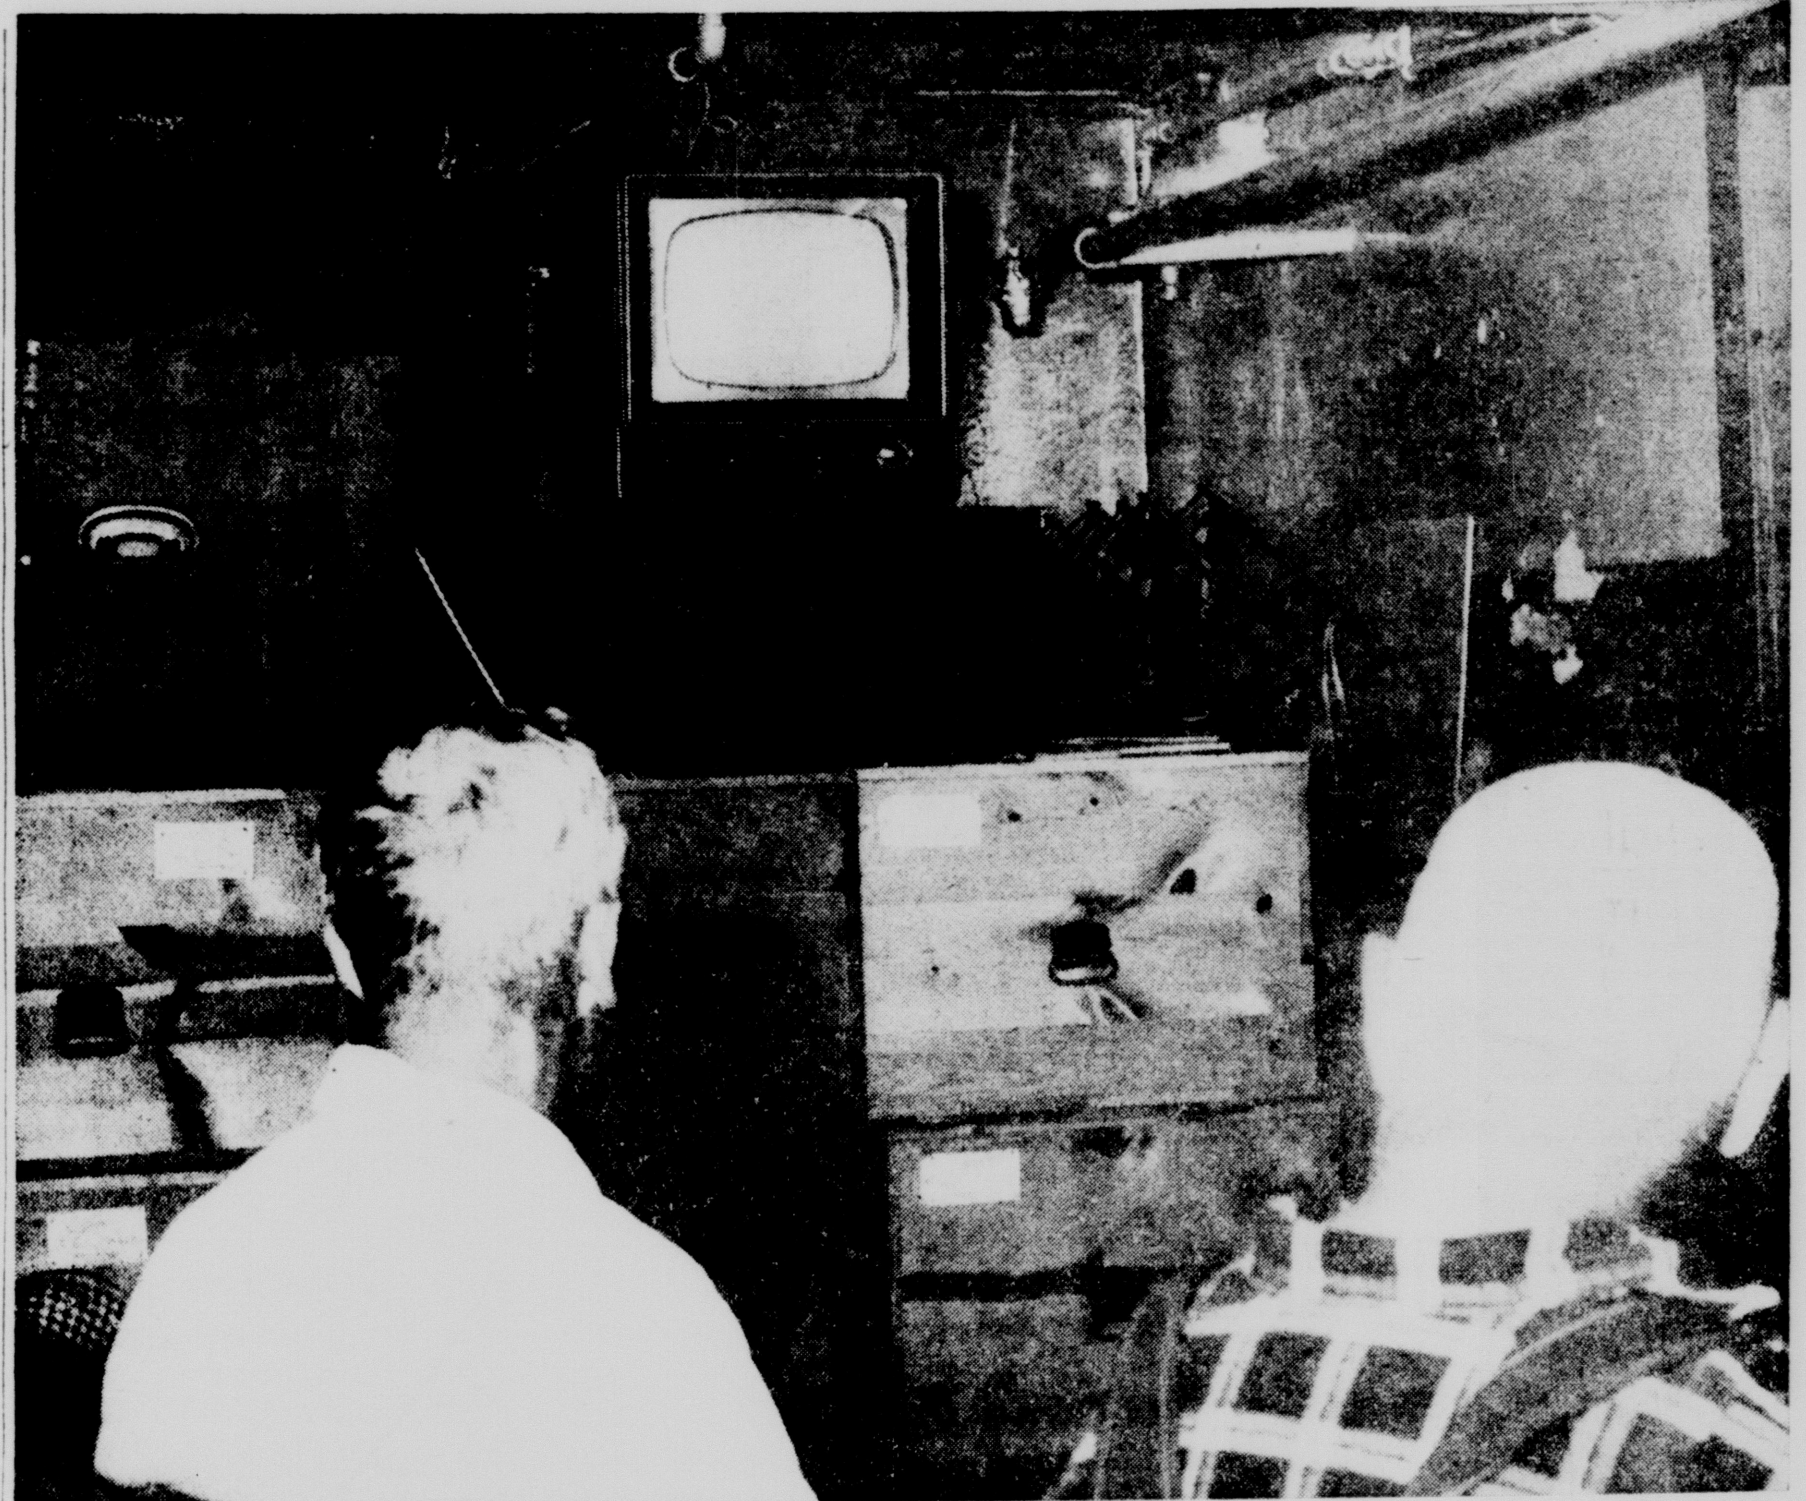

The commissioners were also ordered to rectify deplorable conditions in the sanitary facilities in the laundry structure and in the mental building.

One dimly lighted rest room looked and smelled like an outhouse of the hill country. More modern flush toilets are located in the rooms of the mental and senile members of the county home.

The state inspector said to repair it, so the commissioners had plumbing estimates submitted. They were shocked at the price tag put on the work.

"It was $25-$35,000 just for toilets and accessories for a building that wouldn't be worth $5,000," Gard exclaimed.

Commissioner Wilson, Gard said, inspected the home, "not very long ago," and came back to the county offices "with his mind made up that it wasn't worth while" to pour repair funds into the building.

THE TWO COMMISSIONERS, Gard and Wilson, gained the support of the third board member.

After studying the reports and costs of repairing and maintaining the nearly 100-year-old structures which were constructed in 1867, Hunston and the two others decided that a new home was the only answer. The $1,000 insect exterminating bill they had recently received may have influenced their decision.

So the commissioners instructed Robert Beatty of East Liverpool to draw up plans for a new county home. He did and will be paid $1 if the county commissioners aren't able to use the plans because the $989,000 bond issue is disapproved by the voters.

If it is approved, Beatty will be paid five per cent commission for his work. This is established by state law.

The prospective county home, as designed by the architect, can only be referred to as "plush." The modernistic design of the buildings, all connected, makes it look like a small college campus. It is a far cry from the present structure of brick and wood with a stucco covering.

But what about the present building? Deputy Fire Marshall George Boston of Washingtonville is "holding off on condemnation proceedings" until after the election, Gard said.

WHEN ASKED WHAT THE condition of the home was, Boston replied, "I can't tell you. I've never been down there." He explained he is prohibited by law from inspecting hospitals, nursing homes and the county home unless he has an order from the state fire marshal's office. He said the building department handles the inspections.

Baxter, deputy state building inspector from East Liverpool, has inspected the building. The commissioners have been granted two extensions because of the bond issue which will be on the ballot in November.

"Poverty should not be penalized that much," Gard said while discussing the conditions at the home for 124 men and women who are living their remaining days and years as the "forgotten people."

As to how the home got in such a sad shape, Gard replied: "We inherited it."

Among the reasons he gave for placing the issue on the ballot this year, Gard answered, "If a disaster happens, our consciences won't be hit too hard."

The present building is a fire trap. If a fire ravaged the building housing the mental patients, two dozen persons might lose their lives, according to superintendent Russell Phillips.

Most of them would be trapped in their "cells" and cut off from freedom by locked doors, iron-latched windows and a locked fire escape. The keeper of the keys which unlocks the doors for those considered mentally ill lives in a different section of the building.

INCONGRUOUS, PATHETIC — These two Salem News photos give tangible evidence of conditions at the present Columbiana County infirmary west of Lisbon. In top picture, two residents of the Home must watch television on a set placed atop rough boxes (cots) which must be stored in the makeshift "recreation room." Lower photo—Lonely and dejected, a man sits on side of his sagging bed in a room void of wallpaper or any decoration and a window barred with slates from a wooden crate. Similar bunks are on opposite side of this third floor room of the nearly century-old building.

THESE CONDITIONS A NEW building would rectify. It would be a heart-warming change for many of the patients who have to wait in line to use the three bath tubs in the ground level portion of the mental building. Fifty men use the bath tubs on the same day, according to one of the workers at the home.

Describing the proposed home, Gard explained wings could be added if needed. It would also provide rooms for couples, a little beauty parlor, barber shop and a store where the inmates could buy some little items with their few dollars.

It would house 150 residents and the personnel to run it. "The old home may be retained for the employees for a while," the commissioner said.

The hospital building, newest (1936 Public Works Administration project) of the structures at the home, will be retained as an occupational therapy center for the more capable and healthy residents.

It would require almost all new equipment, the commissioner stated, explaining the present equipment would be sold at public auction.

Although the plans call for a 150 bed structure, the building would probably be enlarged to 200 beds at the time of construction, he said. The hospital will allow room for overflow if the home's population climbs rapidly, he added.

proposed home probably would have to be maintained through an operational levy. Gard says he anticipates the general fund will be so low that "in a few years' time we will have to ask voters to approve a general operating levy."

But the commissioners don't seem to have any concrete plans for increasing the size of the staff to compensate for the enlarged structure. They do expect to hire a practical nurse to aid the registered nurse who is working there now, Gard said.

The three commissioners, after a brief but sharp split within their own ranks, approved a $10-a-month pay increase for the home employees and granted them a day off each week. They had been getting one day off every three weeks. The employees had originally requested a 20 per cent pay increase. There are presently 15 employees working there including the superintendent and his wife. The commissioners had previously authorized 17 employees, Phillips said.

Persons inspecting the home can hardly fail to agree that something should be done to alleviate conditions there.

But on the other hand, do the needs of the county home occupants require the expenditure of almost $1,000,000. And are the commissioners moving ahead without adequate study and planning on this question?

The voters will decide Nov. 3.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

From those who are in a position to know intimately what disturbs the President comes word that Dwight Eisenhower is worried about a revolution — the electronic revolution — the space age version of the industrial revolution. So concerned is the Chief Executive over the spread of electronic factories and other production and transportation facilities across the world that he discusses it virtually each day with his staff, his special advisers and personal friends.

President Eisenhower sees swift and cheap production in other lands engulfing us and threatening the United States with the loss of its industrial leadership. Without that leadership, he believes we will lose the horse race Chairman Khrushchev has been promoting.

This accounts for the President's utterly uncharacteristic intervention in the steel strike crisis.

IT IS AN ABSOLUTELY authentic reflection of his personal philosophy to report that he does not now view such strikes as isolated battles between labor and management but sees each labor war as part of the world picture. Mr. Eisenhower believes every settlement for higher wages and higher prices affects the nation's position in a world which can match us in production techniques and quality.

Whether it's a steel crisis, a rail feud or strikes in the glass, meat and textile fields, the President sees the possibility that our land can price itself right out of the world market.

He and the staff, together or separately, have recently discussed such phenomena as, for example, big new steel mills going up in Canada, bucolic little Ireland beginning to build electronic shops and Japanese automobile competition right here in the United States.

They have discussed the development of steel from iron powder without the use of blast furnaces — something with which the Domnarvel steel mill of Stora Kopparbergs Bergslags A.B. Falun, Sweden, has been experimenting for five years. If successful, this could cut the price of Swedish steel in half, I'm told.

During the clock workers strike the other day, it was observed in the White House that Soviet China has begun to automate its ports. Yet on hundreds of American piers our longshoremen carry bags and chunks of cargo into the holds on their backs as the Chinese did onto junks thousands of years ago. This way we can't stay competitive.

To use one of the President's phrases, it will cause the erosion of the dollar. This, in turn, will cost America the confidence of the rest of the world. The President believes other lands will shy from us if we inflate the dollar and show that we can't control our industrial system's costs.

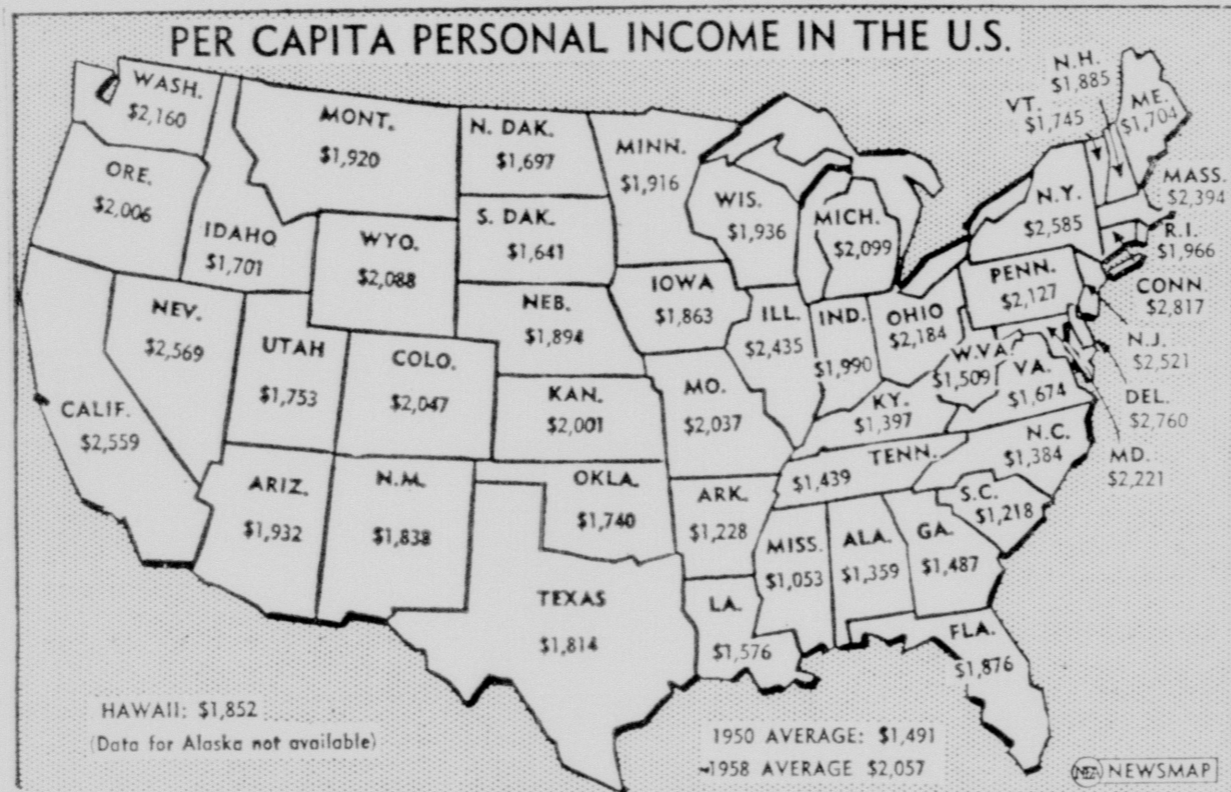

There is disbelief in safe circles that the President has mastered all the economic intricacies by himself, what with the thousand of pressures on him. But he has. Day after day for some seven years the impact of all this has hit his desk — in discussions of the budget, tariffs, aid to foreign lands and armament outlays for space study and penetration.

But it is the steel war which swung him out into the open on the electronic revolution. Except for war and peace, nothing has knocked on the White House door so persistently as the steel conflict.

THE PRESIDENT personally decided to make an issue of the higher cost of one of our major products. He feels that if costs are increased they should be matched by greater productivity. He is aware that within a few months the nation will face exactly the same problem, with a railroad strike just around the bend. He knows an automobile crisis is due shortly after a new president takes office.

To Mr. Eisenhower this problem is all interwoven. He believes that increased costs in any field now means we will be losing the electronic revolution. And he'd rather lose some friend than lose that war.

THE MONEY IN YOUR POCKET — Personal income per person in the United States climbed over $500 in the eight years from 1950 to 1958—from $1,491 to $2,057. This was an increase of 38 per cent. Eighteen states broke the $2,000 mark as against only two in 1950. Connecticut led the nation last year, but New Mexico registered the sharpest increase over 1950, rising by 58 per cent. Ellsworth

Ellsworth Extension Club met in the Grange Hall Wednesday with 47 members and children at the covered dish dinner. In the afternoon several members who had attended the Pottery Institute in Austintown Community Church Oct. 6 gave a report. At the meeting to be held Nov. 3, officers will be elected for the coming year.

The Ellsworth Center Grange met for their monthly meeting at the Grange Hall Tuesday. After the business meeting, an hour was spent in practice by their installation team, which will install Greenford Grange officers Thursday.

Mr. Allen Dickson and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bowman attended an open house and dedication service at the Youngstown Presbyterian Home Sunday.

The WSCS of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Frank Burgoyne Thursday with Mrs. Roy Kennedy and co-hostess. The program was in charge of Mrs. George Schaeffer.

Study and Action Group of the United Presbyterian Church will meet at the church Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

Nine members of Ellsworth Grange attended the county-wide meeting held at Goshen Grange Friday.

The elders and deacons of the United Presbyterian Church will meet at the Church Friday at 7 p.m.

Protestant Youth Council Organizes For New Year

The Salem Protestant Youth Council recently held its first meeting of the 1959-60 term in the First Methodist Church. New officers were named and plans were made for weekly devotional services and for the observance of United Nations Sunday.

Miss Sharon Falls of the First Baptist Church will serve as general chairman of the Council for the coming year, and Miss Barbara Jeffries of the First Friends Church is the new secretary.

Throughout the school year, the Council will sponsor a 15-minute devotional period in the First Christian Church beginning at 8 a.m. each Thursday, beginning this week. All students of the Senior High School are welcome to attend.

This Thursday's devotional period will be conducted by the Christian Youth Fellowship. Each youth group will be assigned a time for leadership in the services.

Youth Fellowship groups are reminded of the Ohio Christian Youth Movement Area Conference on Youth in International Affairs being held Sunday in observance of United Nations Sunday.

Salem youth will attend the conference in Canton's First Presbyterian Church, 530 W. Tuscarawas St. Two from each Youth Fellowship group, preferably the president and the Outreach chairman, are invited to attend the training session at 2:30 p.m. and the supper that follows.

All youth are welcome at the 6:45 p.m. worship service, which has been written for all 16 Ohio Conferences by Woody Deitch, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Deitch of Salem. All adult advisers also are invited to attend. A committee was appointed to prepare details for cooperation with all Youth Fellowships in the UNICEF program. Plans for this project will be announced soon by the chairman, Pinckney Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

All churches wanting to have a part in this Council are asked to appoint two youth to the Council and to call Miss Falls for further information. All adult advisers are urged to attend the meetings. The next meeting will be Nov. 1 at 4 p.m. in the Youth Room of the First Methodist Church.

196,000 Drop Reported In Jobless Statistics

WASHINGTON (AP) — National employment fell off seasonally by 849,000 to 66,347,000 in September. This drop was expected because of the return of temporarily employed students to school.

Unemployment fell by 196,000 to 3,230,000—also primarily due to the job seeking youngsters leaving the labor market to resume classes.

The idle figure—being still over three million—raised the prospect that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may have to eat his hat on the Labor Department building steps.

Mitchell has pledged to do just that if the October idle figure was above three million.

Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor said that with the steel strike still continuing the unemployment total for October probably will exceed three million.

Grain Shipping Up, Ore Down on Lakes

CLEVELAND (AP)—Grain shipments on the Great Lakes reached a five-year high during September while iron ore and coal shipments dipped sharply because of the steel strike, the Lake Carriers Assn. reported Tuesday. Grain shipments last month were 1,145,911 net tons compared with 1,141,990 net tons in September 1954. Iron ore shipments totaled 758,314 gross tons, a 27-year low, and coal dropped 766,812 net tons below the previous September to 5,474,694.
